Man who avoided police by swimming fined $13,000

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Though $13,000 may seem like a steep fine to pay for what should have been a traffic violation, the amount merely covers the costs incurred by nearly a dozen fire departments who responded on April 23 at about 2:30 a.m. when John Flam jumped in Bluff Lake to evade the Lake County Sheriff's Dept. deputy who spotted him driving erratically.

According to authorities, the Antioch man was seen speeding near Rte. 59 and Bayview Rd. When police attempted to stop Flam, he turned westbound onto Beach Grove Rd., went southbound on Douglas and then turned down Park Ave. At that point, he parked his car at an empty lot near the lake, jumped in the water and swam away.

Divers and rescue crews were called in when the deputy saw him submerge twice, fearing he would drown in the cold water.

Antioch expands recycling effort

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

In addition to helping Lake County achieve an overall residential recycling rate of 42 percent for 1999, Antioch's commercial recycling collection has been a success. Not to be outdone, some apartment dwellers are hoping to further increase recycling efforts around town by utilizing commercial type recycling sites with the complex in which they live.

These recycling programs are offered through the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO). In short, Antioch is an active member participating in a variety of programs aimed at commercial as well as residential recycling.

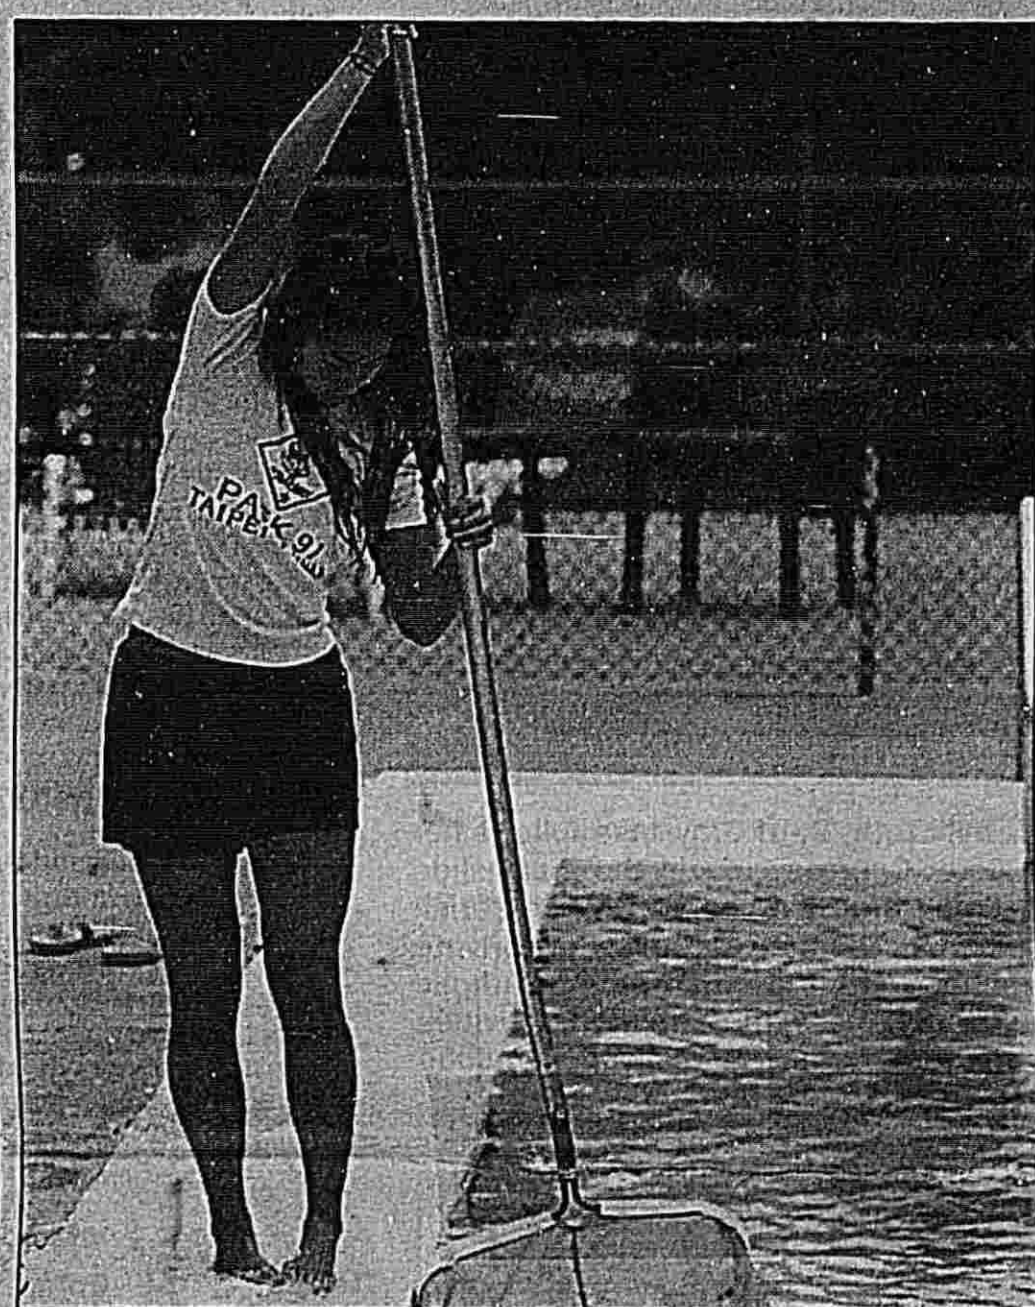

According to SWALCO spokesman Mark Loughmiller, the Green Zone Program in Antioch has been a success. He said, "This program set up shared containers for the commercial, downtown business district within the Main, Toft, Lake and Orchard streets area. These containers are largely for the collection of paper and cardboard. We funded the program for the first two years, and the program has continued on without our funding."

Loughmiller explained that the goal of the program is to downsize the garbage program while increasing the recycling program. He said, "Antioch businesses are recycling about 90 tons of material each quarter."

In a similar program called the Multi-Family Recycling Pilot Project,

Antioch woman pleads guilty to battery in April bar fight

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Amanda T. Zuniga, a 24-year-old Antioch woman, entered a negotiated guilty plea to battery on Aug. 28 in the Lake County Circuit Court for an altercation she was involved in at the Totally 80s nightclub on April 2.

According to Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Shanes, Zuniga was sentenced to two years of court supervision and 40 hours of public service. She must pay $2,000 in restitution to the 26-year-old victim from Trevor, Wis. to cover medical bills for injuries suffered during the fight. Additionally, she has been ordered to keep her distance from the victim.

"Zuniga and the other woman got into a disagreement or dispute over something, and Zuniga pushed the woman," said Shanes. "The woman fell backward down a couple of stairs and hit her head on the ground."

Shanes said Zuniga will have to participate in a substance abuse program as part of her supervision. "She's not allowed to drink and will have to submit to random testing for drugs and alcohol," he said.

The victim has recovered from injuries, and is reported to be "fine."

Small classes draw parents

Catholic education surging with smaller student populations

By SANDY HARTOGH
Correspondent

Long gone are the days of the "little red schoolhouse" that housed students of all grade levels in one room. Now, consolidated school districts have become a driving force in the public education of children nationwide. They leave the concept of neighborhood schools to languish in the wake of campus-like educational settings. Sixty years ago, there were over 117,000 school districts in the United States. By 1990, that number dwindled to about 15,000 due to consolidation. Financially, the centralized plan makes sense, but many question the stability and continuity that may get lost as the students bounce to three, four and sometimes six different buildings before graduating from high school.

Growing Enrollment
among Catholic Schools

PART TWO OF A SERIES

That doubt leads many parents like Nancy Snyder of Round Lake Beach to choose the parochial school system regardless of the extra money doled out each year for tuition.

"I attended parochial school for 12 years," commented Snyder, whose son attends St. Gilbert Catholic School in Grayslake. "I knew the same kids throughout my entire childhood and I still have a lot of those connections. My son would have gone to four different schools before reaching high school. There is no consistency with that many disruptions. I am willing to make sacrifices to keep my children consistent."

Many of the consolidated school districts create "smaller" schools within the overall scheme of things.

GROWING

Woodland School Dist. 50 in Gurnee, one of the county's largest consolidated districts with over 6,000 students, developed different colored student houses. The houses keep the same students in groups year after year for the purpose of building relationships with fellow classmates.

However, many parents still argue that interpersonal relationships between students and teachers tend to get lost in the larger public schools.

"In many cases, parents want a more personalized atmosphere," stated Catherine Barton, principal of Santa Maria Del Popolo Catholic School in Mundelein. "When you only have two classes of each grade, you know who those children are, and the children feel more comfortable knowing their siblings are close by."

Marcie Bosnak, principal of St. Patrick Catholic School in Wadsworth, noted that many of the school's parents who were new to the area confided their trepidation in sending their children to a school with "22 first-grade classes because it was a school all by itself."

Actually, Woodland Dist. 50, where the majority of Wadsworth's elementary school students are enrolled, has 34 kindergarten classes and 32 first-grade classes. Its five-building campus will soon be extended to six if voters approve a November referendum.

Bosnak said her school is "committed" to the concept of kindergarten through eighth-grade under one roof because the "older children are made to be responsible for the younger ones."

Barton shared the same view, pointing out that her junior high school students give up their lunches on a rotation basis to help the younger children. A similar service is provided to the little ones at St. Peter Catholic School in Antioch.

"Service to each other is very important within our school. The children feel vested because they work so hard to form a community and help each other," explained Barton. "The parents are vested as well, so they are very actively involved in the education process."

"Catholic schools tend to be very family-oriented," said Patricia Dieveney, principal of St. Peter Catholic School in Antioch. "That makes it easier for teachers to know their students, their needs and their abilities. It is also easier for the teachers to make contact with the parents."

While keeping with the tradition of K-8 in one school building can be beneficial, one public school official noted that keeping grades in separate buildings provides a deterrent for younger children who might emulate the more mature conduct of the older students, including language and dress habits.

On the other hand, the dress code enforced by the Catholic school system does not leave room for fashion competition between designer and generic jeans. Nor does it cater to statements of identity through the mode of dress that is typical among today's youth.

"Catholic schools have more rules and guidelines and they enforce them without intimidation by the parents," commented Grayslake resident Karen Wojciechowski who has put four children through parochial schools and is considering doing the same for her 2-year-old twin boys. "There was a time when public schools used to have the full support of the parents when it came to discipline. Now, the schools are afraid of getting sued by parents who believe their children's rights have been violated."

Safety in numbers is a common mantra in today's society, but Bosnak claimed that many parents fear for the safety of their children in public schools where more freedom is given.

Wadsworth resident Bert Foster agreed, noting that "St. Pat's keeps an extra eye on the kids."

Another appealing aspect that draws families to parochial schools is the early-childhood education that is not typically offered by federally funded public schools. Many of the Catholic schools in Lake County offer pre-school classes as well as all-day kindergarten classes. This is a definite plus, particularly to young families who survive on double incomes. Public pre-school programs are usually limited to children with learning, speech or hearing disabilities.

On the flip side, public schools have more of an advantage when it comes to special needs students. Special education teachers are available on campus through the Special Education District of Lake County (SEDOL) that is federally funded as well.

Although some of the Catholic schools, like Santa Maria Del Popolo, hire special teachers on a part-time basis to assist students who may need extra help, SEDOL services are available to those students who live within serviced public school districts.

"The public school districts have been very good in consulting with us and providing services to our students when needed," said Barton.

Race car to be at True Value

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

One of the state-of-the-art True Value International Race of Champions (IROC) car will be at the Antioch True Value on Sept. 4 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. The car being displayed is the IROC Firebird driven by Mark Martin.

According to Antioch True Value owner Stan Livermore, the True Value IROC series is a style of racing that levels the field for professional drivers by providing the 12 best race car drivers in the world with identical cars, equally prepared and powerful. With regular Nascar racing, teams design a special race car from the ground up, and each are different.

"One of these unique cars—the one driven by Mark Martin—is the care we'll have for the day," said Livermore. "Racing is a growing sport and we're glad to sponsor the series." Livermore added, "This race is unique because it's really about the skill of the drivers."

Special racing memorabilia will be available for purchase at the store located in the Antioch Plaza on Orchard St. Other sale merchandise will also be available.

Race fans are invited to bring their cameras to take pictures of this special car.

Seniors to learn about program changes

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Township has arranged for Margo Schreiber, director of the Illinois Department on Aging, to be at the Antioch Senior Center on Sept. 7 at 11 a.m. to explain changes in the Circuit Breaker Program that will allow more seniors to qualify for this tax relief program.

Doris Jones, a spokeswoman at the Illinois Department of Aging, offered some of the highlights of the program: She said, "Once a year rebates are given to seniors to pay their light and gas bills if they make under $16,000 a year."

She said forms asking just a few questions are sent to seniors automatically. "There are just a couple of questions to answer," said Jones. "Eligible seniors can also get a pharmaceutical card for $80 a year that will allow up to $700 for prescription medicines. That $80 can be deducted from the rebate, if the applicant doesn't have the $80 to send."

Schreiber will answer additional questions at the Senior Center. Those who are unable to have their questions answered in person should call 800-624-2459 for more information.

Record breaker

Antioch's Lindsey Kelly swims her way to the Olympic Trials

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

While many other 13-year-olds were spending long lazy summer days tanning themselves at the local pool, Lindsey Kelly was trying to make the cut for the Olympic swim team.

A competitive swimmer for the past six years, Kelly advanced to the Southeast Junior Nationals in Gainesville, Fla. where she broke the Junior National record for the 50-meter freestyle with a time of 26.77 seconds.

"I didn't even realize I broke the record until someone came and told me," said Kelly. "After I thought about it, it hit me how really amazing it was to have done that."

That record-breaking time brought her into the Olympic Trials, held at Purdue University in Indianapolis, Ind., seated 66th.

"I didn't make it into the semi-finals or finals," said Kelly. "Only 16 people make it into the semi-finals and eight into the finals. I actually lost a little ground there. I came in seated 66th and left seated 88th."

Her father, Mike Kelly, said, "When she made the cut in Gainesville, Lindsey trained specifically for that meet. She wasn't really trained for the Olympic Trial. If she had been, she probably could have done better—after all she broke the record when she was really prepared for a specific competition."

Mike Kelly explained that the training regimen changes as swimmers prepare for specific competition. There are differences based on the length of the pool and whether there is a wall that the swimmers have to work off of. Additionally, he said practice time generally decreases but is more specific to the particular race.

Lindsey Kelly said she practices for about five and a half hours everyday of the summer, and two and a half hours during the school year. "I also run cross-country at school. That keeps me in shape when I'm not swimming," she added.

Her mother, Pam Kelly, said, "Lindsey began swimming when she was 6 months old with her dad. She was about 8 years old when she first joined a swim team. She wasn't sure she wanted to do it, but after the first week and a half, she wanted to swim all winter."

Her mother added, "She loves to swim. She can go to school all day, run cross-country for a couple of hours, then go to Lake Forest and swim for another couple of hours and bounce out of the pool saying, 'Gee, I love swimming.'"

Lindsey Kelly began her competitive career as part of the Antioch Waves. Over three years ago she switched and began swimming with the Lake Forest Swim Club when a scheduling problem prevented her from continuing on with the Waves.

"My two coaches—Maureen Sheehan and Michael Lawrence—are the best," said Lindsey Kelly. "I was happy, and my coaches were happy when I broke the record."

Though Lindsey Kelly generally competes in a standard swim team suit, she wore a special suit for the Junior Nationals. "I wore a 'fast skin suit' with full legs down to your ankles," she said. "They're comfortable, but they take about 20 minutes to put on."

She attributes some of her success to mostly healthy eating habits. "I try to eat pretty healthy," she said. "Sometimes I get a snack or two in though."

"I'm very proud of her," said her mother. "She does this for fun and love of the sport."

"She's worked hard to achieve this accomplishment," her father added. "We can't say 'maybe next year' with the Olympics, but maybe in four years."

Lindsey Kelly, 13, of Antioch has been a competitive swimmer for six years. She broke the Junior National record for the 50-meter freestyle, making her eligible to compete in the Olympic Trials.—

For more information, call the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry at 395-2233.

The Antioch parks department will be showing off its new building at an open house on Sept. 8 from 10 a.m.-noon. The building is located at 806 Holbek Dr.

According to parks director Laurie Stahl, the building has not been named yet, but officials are leaning toward simply calling it the parks and recreation building.

Those interested in seeing the new building are encouraged to come visit during the open house.

"We will be serving iced tea, lemonade, cake and cookies," said Stahl.

The Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 Board of Education will hold a special meeting Sept. 1 at 9 a.m. in the district office of the school. The purpose of the meeting is for the board to adopt a resolution for placing a question on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Throughout the month of September, Gurnee Mills will be promoting reading by collecting new books for Reading is Fundamental (RIF) in Chicago.

A collection container will be located at the information kiosk near entry E. Anyone donating a new book to RIF will receive a guitar-shaped "Rock 'N Read" refrigerator magnet.

The magnets contain tips to entice school-aged children to read.

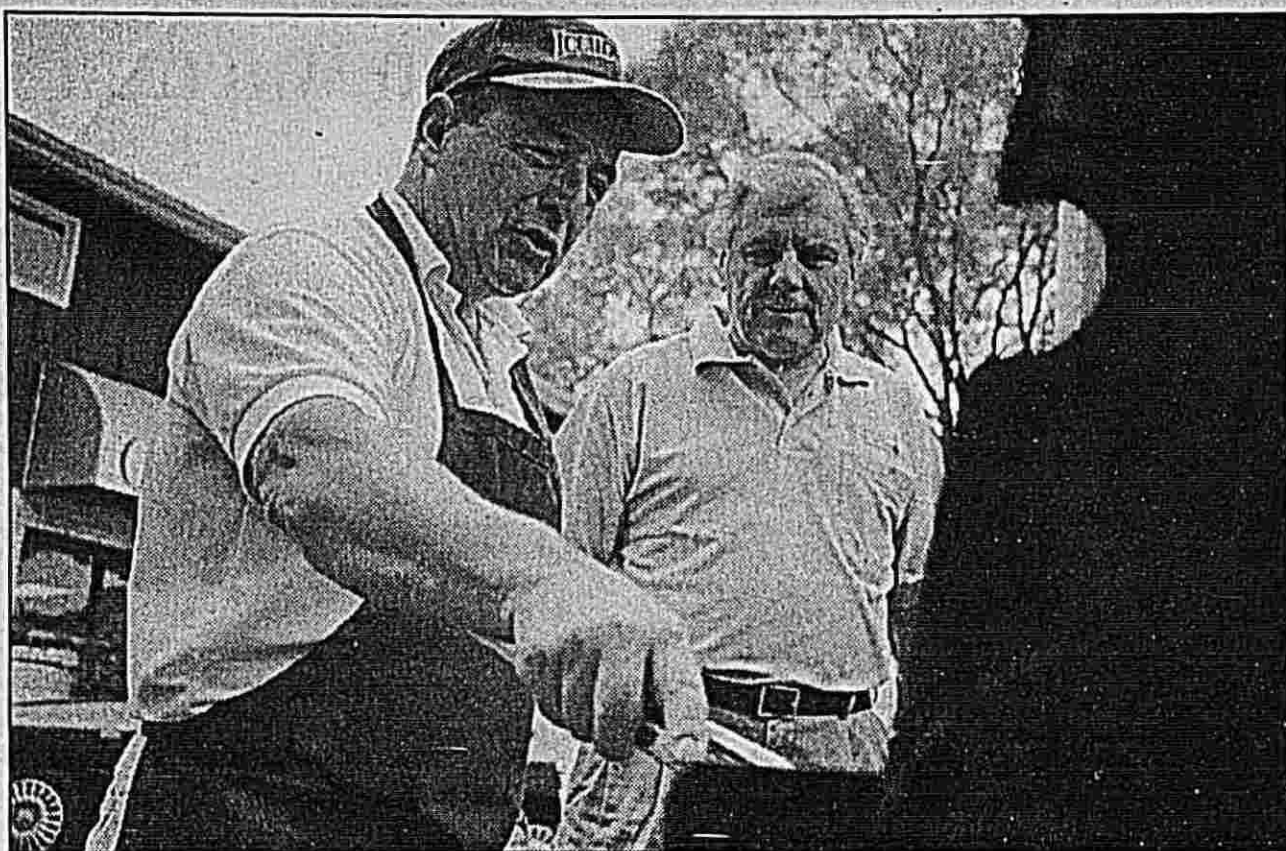

The band MyTown will perform near entry G on Sept. 9 from 2-2:30 p.m. in support of the event. Fans are asked to bring a new book for the band to sign, and then donate that book to the cause.

On Sept. 10, Roger Baum, great-grandson of the author of "The Wizard of Oz" will be signing copies of his book "The Lion of Oz and the Badge of Courage" near entry A from 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

Gurnee Mills is donating all proceeds from the sales of Baum's book, as well as the donated books to RIF.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Resident urges others to attend Antioch meetings

It is very important for each and every one of you to take an active interest to come to the Antioch Village Board meeting on Sept. 18 at 6:30 p.m. at the Village Hall, and the planning and zoning meeting on Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at the Antioch Community High School in the Commons. Neumann Homes would like to annex 55 more acres which now would allow 1,422 homes. Presently, they are petitioning Antioch to build 1,308 homes, which would affect all surrounding communities in the area.

For those that are concerned about the impact this type of development would have on our schools, traffic congestion, public safety, churches, sporting activities and the general impact it will make on our wetlands, wildlife, trees and some rare forms of plant growth, you need to come to the board meeting to show your concern about this type of density.

The number of people over the last several meetings that have taken an interest in this type of subdivision possibly being approved has increased. We would like to see even more residents of the area come out and just be there as Neumann Homes makes their presentation for their petition, along with questions being asked and answered.

Joan Horan
Antioch

Number of students for Neumann to be explained

I would like to extend my thanks to Tom Baba on the plan commission for asking that a representative from the school board attend the Sept. 21 Plan Commission meeting to explain how they arrived at the projected number of students from the proposed Neumann Homes development. Their figure—as reported by Ken Neumann—is 900 plus or less than one child per house.

Mardi Gras planned

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

This year, the Antioch Rotary Club's annual Pork Chop Barbecue and Auction will have a Mardi Gras theme.

The event is planned for Oct. 7 at St. Peter's Father Hanley Social Center. Dinner will begin at 5 p.m. and the auction will start at 7 p.m.

"The proceeds from the auction will go toward many area projects," said auction chairman Mark Lubkeman. "With over 100 live auction items and more than 50 silent auction items, we are able to offer financial support to many worthy organizations."

More than $780,000 has been raised in the past 12 years thanks to the community support of the rotary club's auction. Money raised has been distributed among 75 groups and organizations in and around Antioch.

Tickets are $20 and are available at the State Bank of the Lakes, First National Bank-Employee Owned, Osmond Insurance and from any rotarian.

To keep things running smoothly, bidders will be asked to register before the auction. Registration numbers will be used when bidding. Records will be kept of the winning bid and bidder for each item.

Full payment is due at the time of the auction by cash, Visa or Mastercard.

For more information contact Lubkeman at 395-5444, or Bob Schneider, publicity chairman at 395-4444.

RECYCLING

the Antioch Manor apartments are using commercial-type collection system enclosures to collect recycled materials.

The program has been in effect since December 1999 and will be funded for another year. In that time period, an average of 28 tons of paper has been collected per quarter, as well as 4.5 tons of plastic/glass containers per quarter.

"It's a little more difficult getting apartment complexes to continue on with the program (beyond the two funded years) as they don't want to be caught off-guard," said Loughmiller.

"They tend to be on the edge of the appropriate services because they don't have a steady stream (of people moving in or out and using a lot of recyclable paper and cardboard), and this causes them not to want to downsize their refuse."

Loughmiller explained those times when an apartment complex has stayed with the program in the past it has cost the property management about $1 per unit to keep up the recycling efforts. "We are hopeful the same situation can work out in Antioch Manor," he added.

responding departments at Flam's sentencing. He said, "I had the bills from each of the fire departments. The Antioch Fire Dept. brought six divers, and each of the others averaged three. This does not include any of the support staff who needed to be there with the divers."

Flam pleaded guilty to resisting arrest on Aug. 10. The other charges—including the felony charge of obstruction of justice—were dropped. A plea agreement was struck, and Flam has been ordered to pay $800 per month until the $13,000 is paid off. He was placed on probation for 18 months.

Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Shanes said, "Flam can be resentenced and spend up to a year in prison if he violates probation." According to Shanes, this includes making all of the scheduled payments to repay his debt.

"He wanted to go on record as apologizing to all of the fire departments who responded," said Lucas. "Diving in the Chain O'Lakes is inherently dangerous because you can't see anything. . . Unfortunately, this got carried away, and we spent hours putting ourselves at risk to find this guy."

There is no way police could know if Flam had been under the influence of drugs or alcohol as it was several hours before he was found and brought into custody. "Most people don't jump out of the car and run away from an officer, so something must have been up," said Shanes.

While stressing this is not the situation here, Shanes said, "Typically a DUI with no priors and no aggravation would be significantly less (than the fine Flam will pay)." He added that the cash bond Flam paid would go toward paying back the fire departments.

Lucas said he was surprised Flam pled guilty. "I'm glad he's going to have to pay all of the cost for the rescue he caused," he added. "He should have to take responsibility for that."

In Lucas' estimation, nearly 40 divers spent the early morning hours of Easter Sunday searching the lake for Flam. "Grayslake, Gurnee, Libertyville, Waukegan, Zion, Newport Township, Fox Lake, Lake Zurich, Winthrop Harbor and Lake Villa (in addition to Antioch) all responded to the call," he said.

Police observed and followed a jeep as it weaved back and forth over the white fog line on Rte. 59.

His identifiers were checked through LEADS/NCIC and came back with him having a suspended driver's license. Bugailiskis was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for improper lane usage, operating an uninsured vehicle and driving while his driver's license is suspended.

Roselle man arrested on warrant

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Police arrested a Roselle man for numerous traffic violations, as well as being wanted on an outstanding warrant Aug. 23.

Frank M. Brock, 31, of 313 Turner Ave., was initially arrested on an outstanding warrant, possession of cannabis, resisting a peace officer, and driving under the influence of alcohol at 11:39 p.m. at the intersection of Lake St. and Toft St.

Police observed a blue Toyota pickup truck cross over the center line as it traveled southbound on Main St. Brock's identifiers were run through LEADS/NCIC and came back with him having an active warrant.

The warrant was both issued and confirmed through the Roselle Police Dept., and was for violation of order of protection with a $5,000 bond, 10 percent applying.

As police spoke to Brock, the strong odor of alcohol was detected on his breath. He was advised that he was under arrest for the violation of order of protection warrant. He was ordered to turn off the ignition and exit the truck.

Brock refused twice, and put the car into drive and drove right onto Toft St.

Police conducted an inventory of the Toyota for the tow report. A metal smoking pipe "one hitter" was found containing burnt cannabis residue. No other illegal items were found.

When police arrived at Antioch Police Dept. the field sobriety test was demonstrated and instructed. Brock refused to perform any tests. He was then placed under arrest for driving under the influence of alcohol.

He was issued additional citations for improper lane usage, no insurance, resisting a peace officer, and unlawful possession of cannabis.

Three Antioch businesses celebrate grand openings

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Village officials helped three businesses celebrate their grand openings. New to Antioch are the Auto Zone, Ear Candy and E-Z Payday Advance.

According to district manager Glenn Combs, "Auto Zone is the largest automotive retailer with 2,900 stores in the United States."

He said the store carries a large selection of parts, both foreign and domestic. "We cater to do-it-yourself-type people who want a good product at a good price," Combs said.

He added that the store does perform free testing for batteries, alternators and starters, and installation is available for some things like wiper blades and batteries.

The store will special order parts if necessary, offers a "no hassle" return policy and has a national warranty program that computer links all stores for customer convenience.

Auto Zone is open seven days a week.

Ear Candy buys and sells both new and used compact discs, videos, computer games as well as the T-shirts, posters and stickers that go with them.

Owner Dave Baker said, "I buy both new and used items off the Internet and from customers who come in the store."

He said he keeps the most popular music and games on hand plus some of the more obscure. "Some things I can't pay the best price for, because I don't know what it is or if I'll ever be able to resell it, but my offers are fair. A customer can decide to refuse my offer or see if I can come back with a little more," said Baker.

He added, "If it is a trade-type situation, I can give the customer a good deal on the things he wants."

Though Baker is almost always at the shop during store hours, customers may want to call ahead when bringing items in to sell.

In the future, Baker is considering taking in some record albums as well.

E-Z Payday Advance owner John McCarthy said he is in business to help those in need of emergency cash. "This is really to help people cover unexpected expenses. This is not meant to pay the mortgage or make car payments," he stressed.

"This type of business gets accused of preying on the elderly and others who would have difficulty paying the money back. That doesn't make sense though. We aren't going to lend someone money who can't pay it back," said McCarthy.

McCarthy also has locations in McHenry and Crystal Lake. He said, "We have processed 14,000 transactions in the three years we've been in Crystal Lake, and we have not had one complaint made to the Department of Financial Institutions (the governing body for this type of business)."

In a typical transaction, the store charges a $20 fee for a customer to borrow $100 for two weeks.

Legislators collect cellular phones for domestic violence victims

Three area legislators are working to combat domestic violence, but this time they aren't fighting the abuse in Springfield. State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) and State Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) are working locally to combat domestic violence through the Call to Protect program.

"This is an excellent way for individuals and businesses to get involved in fighting the problem of domestic violence," said Geo-Karis.

The three lawmakers are collecting used wireless phones. The phones will be programmed with 911 and emergency access so domestic violence victims can get help at the touch of button. Local wireless providers donate free airtime for the calls.

Geo-Karis said their drive gained momentum when a Waukegan business-owner donated 50 phones and chargers to their cause. Jason DeBates of Pace Communications made the donation.

"We are especially pleased with DeBates' generous donation of 50 phones and chargers," said Geo-Karis. "DeBates' donation will definitely be put to good use. He should be proud of his example. Even one phone can help save a life and these 50 phones will certainly save more."

Used wireless phones may be dropped off at any of the three legislators' offices: In Antioch at 976 Hillside, Libertyville at 131 E. Park Ave. Ste. B-1 and Zion: 2613 Sheridan Rd.

Nationwide, the Call to Protect program is sponsored by The Wireless Foundation. Motorola and the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence. The three lawmakers are involved through the efforts of the Conference of Women Legislators.

Happy Labor Day to all: It's time to rejuvenate

Well here it is Labor Day weekend—which we all know means summer is officially over and winter will be upon us shortly. With the end of summer comes the monumental task of winterizing every structure, machine and vehicle within our possession. Caulk is in high demand. The thought that there are no more three-day weekends until Thanksgiving just makes you want to jump out of bed Tuesday morning and rush off to work, doesn't it?

With summer officially at a close and the winter months approaching, it also signifies no more sand being dragged across a freshly washed kitchen floor, no more wet pool towels found hiding under the beds, no more grass to mow or gardens to weed. Winter plagues us with new dilemmas though, like trying to get the little ones dressed for school in their snowsuits, mittens and boots, not to mention that we only have five hours of day-

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

light to drive us insane.

But looking past all that, it's that great time of year when by 7 p.m. it's dark outside and you can justify putting the kids to bed. Winter is the time of year you are supposed to sit back, rest and recuperate from your hectic, fun-filled, always-on-the-go summer—just ask any male over the age of 12.

Men have mastered the task of reviving their depleted energy levels, usually by laying on the couch most weekend afternoons watching the sporting event of their choice on the TV, all the while eating chili like there is no tomorrow.

We humans expel so much energy between Memorial Day and Labor Day, we need the months between Labor Day and Memorial Day to rejuvenate ourselves. Then, just about the time we think our energy level has reached its maximum potential, November arrives and we find ourselves tapping into that reserved strength as the reality of the Christmas season sets in. So moms everywhere, kick the dog, your husband and all the old newspapers off that couch.

It is your turn to lay down and recuperate from your busy summer for the next couple of weeks, because before you know it, the frenzied holidays will be here to zap you of any of that restored get-up-and-go, and Christmas shopping takes lots of energy.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

THE CLIPBOARD

Michael H. Babicz

A royal salute!

Discipline. Determination. Compassion. Caring. A winner. Those are all attributes of Amos Jones, retired coach, dean and teacher at North Chicago Community High School.

Coach Jones was the main honoree during the Aug. 26 Navy Day festivities at NCCHS. A pre-varsity game parade saw Coach Jones accompanied by his wife along with numerous Great Lakes and community based organizations represented.

In special pre-game ceremonies, the former "Hawk Stadium" was renamed Amos I. Jones Field. As a former Warhawk athlete who had Coach Jones as a coach and dean, it was especially heartwarming to see him so honored in a community which he has dedicated his life to helping.

Even in retirement, Coach Jones continues to be involved in various projects including the Keith Ryan Scholarship Committee at the College of Lake County.

In addition to Coach Jones, other honorees for the day included all Korean War veterans who received a special commemoration during halftime of the varsity game.

William H. Schroeder, Publisher of Lakeland Newspapers, was honored at a morning brunch for his contributions as a Lake County Navy League director. Mr. Schroeder has been instrumental in various projects involving the Navy over the past 25 years, including raising funds for the Lone Sailor statue located at Great Lakes. Bill is continuing to work on securing a Navy war ship to be docked at Waukegan Harbor and used as an educational piece as well as a tourist attraction.

Machinist Mate 1st Class Kevin Bacon was recognized for his contributions to the Navy and local community.

Theodore Hudson Jr., a Korean War veteran and former NCCHS electronics teacher and District Board of Education member, has been a physical therapist at the North Chicago Veterans Affairs Medical Center. A member of the Disabled American Veterans, Hudson has served on the school board since 1989, founded the district's academic olympics and is active in seeking to establish a Veterans Memorial Park in North Chicago.

Mike Weakley, a NCCHS Class of '74 graduate, owns and operates Weakley Printing in North Chicago. Mike has been involved in numerous community projects including being the organizer of Mayor Jerry Johnson's annual golf outing.

Theodore Stanulis III, Waukegan Savings & Loan Association president, is serving as North Chicago Chamber of Commerce President. Stanulis assists at the annual Kids 1st Fair hosted by the Lake County Health Department and is a volunteer reader at North Chicago schools.

Senator Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) and Illinois Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) were recognized for their assistance in obtaining grants for various NCCHS and community projects including the upgrading of the athletic field and the installation of lights.

The Warhawks are slated to play their first home night game on Friday, Sept. 15.

It was a great event and great to be a part of it through the participation of Kids & Racers for Victory! in the parade and by my being an official for the varsity game.

All of the North Chicago community and grads have a right to be very proud as the Hawks are soaring again.

Sequoits off to auspicious start on gridiron

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

After a season-opening loss to Mukwonago (Wis.) last year, the Sequoits turned in what was seemingly magical campaign. The Sequoits had their backs against the wall entering the regular-season finale against Stevenson. The result was a thrilling 42-35 come-from-behind victory, which propelled them into the playoffs for the second consecutive year.

Well, with the departure of quarterback Don Lackey and Adam Niles on offense and Conrad Adkins on defense, there are some question marks for the 2000 Sequoits, who according to Head Coach Del Pechauer, look to finish in the middle of the pack in the NSC Lake Division.

"We have a lot of young guys-many who have not played at this level before," the coach said. "We just need to keep playing hard and get that experience and we should be okay."

And in most instances, experience does breeds success, and if senior signal-caller Brandon White, senior wide receiver Ari Brown, and the lightning-quick receiving of senior Eric White (846 yards, 5 TDs in '99) continue to develop, Antioch could surprise.

Meanwhile, the running game will rest primarily on the shoulders of senior Mark Purnell.

The defense lost several key players, including Geremi Wicinski, Kris Vanderkooy and Conrad Adkins.

But senior linebacker Scott Hodina should be a force in the defensive backfield and on the pass rush.

The Sequoits got off to an auspicious start, falling to host Mukwonago (Wis.) 14-0 Aug. 25.

For three quarters, a defensive battle took shape. The one frame it did not, however, was the third. That's when the hosts scored two touchdowns on their first two possessions.

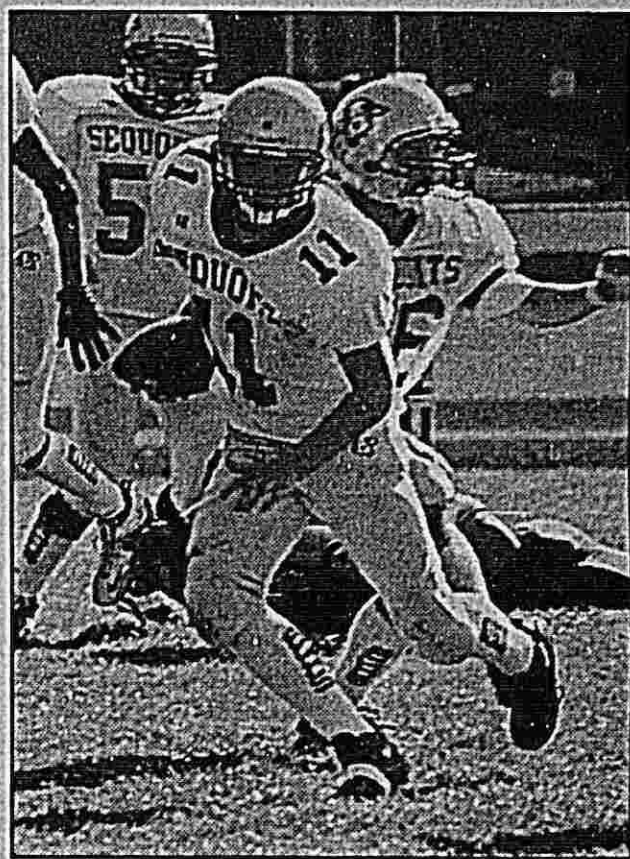

Antioch had threatened in the first quarter but the result was a missed field goal.

Purnell led the rushing attack, dashing for 66 yards on 12 carries. Brandon White took his lumps and bruises but still managed nine completions for 110 yards, 79 coming via the hands of wideout Brown.

"Brandon's coming along nicely," noted Pechauer. "He didn't play too much last year because we had Donny (Lackey). Lackey was our starter for three years. So there's some learning that needs to be done."

Hodina led the defense, collecting six solo tackles to go along with three assists. Linebacker Scott Gehrke complemented him by tallying five solo tackles.

The Sequoits look to get back on track when they host Fenton Sept. 2 at 1 p.m.

Lady Sequoit golfers: Young, but learning as they go

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

It might be off to a slow start at 0-5 in dual matches, but rest assured, the Antioch varsity girls golf team should be making some waves in the North Suburban Conference as the 2000 season progresses.

"It was kind of unexpected the way we've started," said Head Coach Steve Wapon. "But we're very young and inexperienced. We just need to work on better course management.

Our short games are also haunting us."

One player looking like a veteran is the steady Danielle Nielsen, who carded a 43 during last week's 198-203 loss to Westosha Central (Wis.) at Brighton Dale in Bristol. Joining Nielsen in the four-man scoring was Whitney Sehmer (51), Katie Malcolm (57) and Katie Lincoln (57).

Other varsity scores were turned in by Lindsey Ketterling (59) and Erica Hedlund (63).

On Aug. 28, Antioch fell to Barrington 189-207 as Nielsen again took medalist honors with a 41. Sehmer added a 53, Malcolm a 54 and Lincoln a 59 to round out the scoring. Other scorers included Ketterling (61) and Hedlund (64).

The Lady Sequoits take some time off for Labor Day weekend before returning to the links Sept. 6, when they take on Warren in the NSC opener at Spring Valley at 4 p.m.

Antioch will then host Evanston Sept. 7, also at Spring Valley, before traveling to Bonnie Brook GC in Waukegan for the Waukegan Invitational Sept. 9.

Solid start for Sequoit men's golf team

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

A good start is just what the doctor ordered for the Antioch varsity boys golf team.

However, the opposition is playing a little bit better.

Last weekend, the Sequoits tallied a five-man total of 393 in taking fifth in the eight-team McHenry Invitational, held at Boone Creek. Prairie Ridge won the event, firing a 375.

For Antioch, Andrew Kinney, Mike Baba and Marc Woltzen carded 78s. Shawn Schuler was right behind with a 79. Other scores had Tom Davis with an 80 and Lem Jares an 82. All are seniors.

"This was an excellent tournament," noted Head Coach Jeff Moxley. "We had four guys in the 70s and nobody placed."

Moxley went on to say that the top-10 medalists were all under 75 with the champion carding a 70.

"We're playing good golf-but not great golf," he added.

Moxley and the gang then slipped past Grant Aug. 29 157-162, held at Spring Valley in Salem.

Davis fired a 1-over-par 36 while Baba and Jares posted 40s. Kinney rounded out the four-man scoring with a 41.

Other scores were turned in by Woltzen (41) and Schuler (46).

Antioch, 2-0 in dual meets, hosts Round Lake Sept. 4 at Spring Valley. The Sequoits then host their annual invitational, also at Spring Valley, on Saturday, September 9 beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Meanwhile, the junior varsity was on fire last week, firing one of its best round in recent history, a 153-194 victory over Harvard, also played at Spring Valley.

Andrew Curto, Ryan Nelson and Jarrett Cable each shot 3-over 38s. John Snelton rounded out the scoring, firing a 39.

Lake Zurich area Relay for Life raises $63,000 for the Fight Against Cancer

Four hundred competitors, 75 volunteers, 25 corporate sponsors and 35 cancer survivors worked together on Aug. 19 and 20 to raise money for the American Cancer Society through the First Annual Lake Zurich Area Relay for Life.

The Relay, which was held at Paulus Park in Lake Zurich, is the American Cancer Society's version of a relay but with a new twist. Relay for Life is a family-oriented team event where participants, representing corporations, clubs, organizations, neighborhoods and families, can walk or run on a track, relay-style for 16 hours.

Participants camp out around the track, and when they aren't taking their turn, take part in other fun activities. Participants include individuals, families and teams from companies and organizations. Cancer patients and their families and friends also participate to help make the point that, through the work of the American Cancer Society, we are winning the battle against cancer.

Corporate sponsors, including presentation sponsors Abbott Laboratories and Baxter International, helped raise the funds and brought out teams. CDW Computer Centers, Walgreens, The News-Sun and Kemper Insurance were also major sponsors of the event.

Lake Zurich Mayor Jim Kruschke and Honorary Chairperson Alex Paris opened the event with uplifting dedications and messages of hope.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide voluntary health agency dedicated to eliminating cancer health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives from cancer and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education and service.

Lady Sequoit netters down Zion for first victory; Waukegan next

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

The Antioch varsity girls tennis team evened its record Aug. 28 following a 4-1 victory over NSC rival Zion-Benton.

Nicole Edwards, playing No. 2 singles, posted an impressive 6-4, 6-4 victory to get things rolling for the Sequoits.

"Nicole showed mental toughness in this match," said Head Coach Bryan Plinske. "Her opponent (Anna Zika) was hitting forehand winners but Nicole made the necessary adjustments. Everytime Anna would get close, Nicole would go backhand and pull away."

The No. 1 doubles tandem of Mandy Hughes and Kristen Jensen also cruised, winning 6-2, 6-2.

"They really continue to improve as a doubles team," noted Plinske. Hughes and Jensen are currently 2-0 on the young season.

At No. 2 doubles, Leah Tobiaske and Mary O'Neil fought to a grueling 6-4, 6-7, 6-4 three-set victory.

"The score says it all in this one," said

Plinske. "Both teams played hard. But the match came down to positioning and Leah and Mary forced Zion to hit some tough shots by where they stood on the court."

At No. 3 doubles, Jen Richardson and JoEllen Darfler also prevailed 7-5, 7-5 in what Plinske called a "big win" for them.

"They are still getting used to playing doubles but today they learned about making the big shot when it counts. Both times they were tied 5-5 and just executed when the match was on the line."

Antioch (1-1) will take on Waukegan Sept.

1 at home.

In its opener, the Sequoits fell to Carmel 4-1. Hughes and Jensen were the only winners, prevailing 5-7, 6-2, 7-5 at No. 1 doubles.

"They relied on their vast experience to get the job done," said Plinske. "A lot of teams would have folded after that first set but the girls dug deep and never lost sight of their goal."

"We just want to use this match as a learning experience," continued Plinske. "We need to work on getting our lobs a little deeper."

Six ASK students earn Junior Olympian honors

Six students from the Antioch Shotokan Dojo took some numbers last week, competing in the 2000 AAU Junior Olympics in Orlando, Florida. Krystal Mason, Graham Conners, Jon Mrozinski, Mike Mrozinski, Scott Curtis and Ryan Curtis all returned home with medals and placing ribbons. All six students had just participated in the 2000 AAU National Karate Championships, where they were also very successful.

"They couldn't relax just yet," said Sensei Anna Conners. "They all knew they still had one more tournament left and they trained very hard in their classes and put in extra time by participating in the school's tournament training sessions."

With only an Advanced Division competing in Orlando, all six students established their goals and it paid off as each finished in the top half of their individual divisions.

In the 8-year-old Kata Division (forms), Mason claimed fifth-place. In the 13-year-old group, Mike Mrozinski placed 10th while in the 14-year-old age group, Scott Curtis also took home 10th place. Ryan Curtis finished 14th and Graham Conners 10th in the 15-year-old division.

Competing in his first Junior Olympics, Jon Mrozinski claimed the bronze medal in the 17-year-old division.

"He did great for his first Junior Olympics," noted Sensei Conners.

Overall, Sensei Conners said all of the divisions were so large because there was only the advanced division, the Black Belt, and "our kids did great!"

"There were 400-500 competitors but I saw a lot of anticipation, excitement and determination from my six students," added Conners. "They were more focused in their training and their execution at the Junior Olympics than I've ever seen them be."

In the Kumite Divisions (sparring), Mason earned the Copper Medal (4th place), while Ryan Curtis, Mike Mrozinski and Scott Curtis all finished 10th in their respective age groups. Graham Conners also picked up a fifth-place ribbon and Jon Mrozinski, once again, placed third in earning another bronze medal.

"They all did an outstanding job and really had their hearts into it," reflected Sensei Conners.

Because of his placement in the individual divisions, Jon Mrozinski has been selected to the 2000 USA World Team, who will be traveling to Hungary this fall. Fund-raising efforts to sponsor Jon's trip have gotten underway immediately. If interested in helping sponsor Jon, please call Sensei Conners, Antioch Shotokan Karate, at (847) 395-5425 for further information.

'Home cookin' at Wilmot suits Kurt Winker just fine

Nothing like a little 'home cookin.' Kurt Winker began coming to the Wilmot Speedway as a baby. On Aug. 26, the seven-year racing veteran returned to the one-third mile clay oval and promptly won The After the County Fair Championships 25-lap Interstates Racing Association (IRA) Sprint Car Series main event.

The second-generation driver, son of Al and Marie Winker, admits Wilmot is and will always be 'a very special place.' Having begun coming to the track as a child, helping serve on his Dad's pit crew, and then running his first now defunct Modified Racing Association (MRA) style modified race on the track located on the Kenosha County Fairgrounds in Wilmot, Wis., Kurt continues to hold a special gleam in his eye for the place.

Now a regular traveling with the regional IRA series, Kurt only competes at Wilmot when the IRA comes in, or on a special event such as the World of Outlaws Gumout Series sanctioned 'King of Wisconsin' held back in July. Having won his first ever IRA feature at Wilmot three seasons ago, 20-something sprinkler fitter from Pleasant Parry shows he's learned a lot from his Dad and from running a lot of laps around Wilmot.

"You have to have a special touch between the throttle and the brake peddle," said Winker in victory lane after having taken his second straight IRA feature win (he won Aug. 19 at Plymouth, Wis.).

"This is a tricky place to run because each turn is different. I've turned a lot of laps here and my Dad has helped me a lot, too."

It was an emotional victory lane for Winker as he received the Wayne Daun Memorial plaque from Todd Daun, a fellow sprint car competitor and long time family friend of the Winkers. "I've known you and your Dad since I was a kid," said Kurt, noticeably touched as he hugged Todd who presented the plaque on behalf of his family, Wilmot Promoter Andy Calin and IRA President Steve Sinclair.

"Your Dad helped me a lot, and before that, he helped my Dad. I can't be your Dad, but I can surely be your friend. I'll always be here for you."

LET'S GO RACING

Michael H. Babicz

Wayne Daun passed away three weeks earlier while in his sleep when the IRA was on a trip to Michigan.

Following Winker across the finish line was Wilmot's regular Star Trac 410 Outlaw Sprint Car point leader Dave Moulis of Johnsburg. Scott Nietzel of Beaver Dam was third. Todd Hepfner of Pewaukee was fourth. Seven-time IRA champion and current point leader Joe Roe finished fifth.

Moulis started the night out with the quickest qualifying lap of the IRA season high 59-car field as he toured the one-third mile oval in :13.767 seconds (87.078 MPH average). After a flat tire forced Moulis to the pits during the first qualifying heat, the former IRA and Wilmot champion and current 'King' of Wisconsin Sprint Car Racing, was forced to run the 'C' main.

John 'Tornado' Tierney, formerly of Lake Villa now living in Burlington, Wis., nipped Moulis for the 'C' main checkered as the two crossed the finish line wing to wing before a large and enthusiastic crowd. The tables were turned in the 'B' main with Moulis winning and Tierney second.

Nietzel transferred out of the 'B' as well showing how highly competitive the racing was in the qualifying heats. Raymond Hensley of Trevor, formerly from Lake Villa, continued to be plagued by problems. Despite having his best season ever in a sprint car, sporting six IRA feature wins, Raymond had an oil filter break on the opening lap of his heat race sending him to the pits and into the 'C' main since only the top two from the 'C' advance. Hensley gave it all he could but fell one spot and less than one car length short, finishing third eliminating him from the remainder of the program.

Heat wins went to Dennis Spitz of Kenosha, Hepfner, Scott Grissom of Winthrop Harbor and John Haeni of Lomira. One of the most enthusiastic wins of the night came in the last chance race when Frank 'Charlie Brown' Moser of Antioch scored his first-ever sprint car checkered flag at Wilmot. Frank was so excited he pulled into the infield, leaped out of his car, and thanked the fans, his family, his crew, and everybody for all of their support of the years.

It was great for all to see Frank score a well-deserving win as he received the Ray Toft Dedication to Motorsports Award in January at the Wilmot awards banquet. The award was presented to the former tow truck driver and corner worker at the Speedway for all of his away from the track appearances and participation in events acting as an ambassador for the sport. Ironically, Frank did not race during the 1999 season, but still made many more appearances than other drivers who raced the entire season. Way to go Frank!

It was a memorable night in the IMCA modified portion of the program as well. Dan Hopkins of Beach Park, in his third season of racing, scored his first-ever feature win in a flag-to-flag record setting run for the 20-lap non-stop main.

"This one is for my Dad," said an emotional Hopkins. "When I was little, I saw him win a lot of races at the old Waukegan Speedway when I was sitting in the stands. Now it was my turn to win one with Dad watching me from the pits."

Wilmot begins its final month of the 2000 season with Dave's American Muffler & Brake Shop/Jensen Towing of Kenosha Night on Saturday, Sept. 2. Star Trac Sprints, IMCA Modifieds and Herb's IMCA Hobby Stocks are in action with the first race at 7 p.m. The Speedway's traditional Model Car Contest, sponsored by Bob's Hobby Shop of Lindenhurst, will be held. Persons desiring to enter must have their models at the Speedway between 5-5:30 p.m. in the picnic area of the grandstands.

There is no entry fee, however, persons making entries must have a valid pit pass or grandstand ticket for the Sept. 2 race program. Entrants will be divided into a junior and senior division based upon their age. The top-three in each age group will receive awards with the highest overall point receiver from the judges receiving the overall honor.

In my first ever trip for an event at Chicago Motor Speedway in Cicero, I was met with a great weather day, a super facility, friendly staff and some great NASCAR racing. A tip of the hat to one of the elders in the NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series, Joe Ruttman California, who scored a close victory in the Sears Diehard 175. Finishing a close second, and very arguably with the fastest truck in the field, was the Rausch Racing entry of series point leader Greg Biffle from the State of Washington. Biffle has a Lake County connection as his primary sponsor is W.W. Grainger based in Lincolnshire. Mike Wallace of St. Louis finished third.

The 'Kids and Racers for Victory' will be participating in the traditional Zion Jubilee Days Parade on Monday, Sept. 4, of the Labor Day weekend. The parade steps off from Shiloh Park, making its way southbound on Sheridan Road. Watch for the Wilmot Speedway Official Pace Truck, Lonny Roy of Zion's IMCA hobby stock and Jay Sachs of Waukegan's winged outlaw sprint car, plus possibly others, in the always well attended event.

With Labor Day weekend upon us, make sure to get out to some of the last full month of local motorsports action. Lake Geneva Raceway hosts its final regular Friday program on Sept. 1, a regular Saturday night of action on Sept. 2 and finish with the Midwest Enduro Stock Car Series '301' on Monday afternoon, Sept. 4. Race time each night is 7:30 p.m. with the enduro getting underway at 1 p.m., preceded by a media race and children's penny pick-up starting at 12:30 p.m.

The enduro series makes a stop at Madison International Speedway on Saturday, Sept. 2 with a 2 p.m. start for the event in Oregon, Wis.

North Chicago hails contributions of Navy

Lake County's major beneficiary of the economic impact of Great Lakes Naval Training Center, the City of North Chicago, goes all out every year to express appreciation for the military.

North Chicago Navy Day provides residents an opportunity to extend thanks and foster neighborliness at a leadership breakfast, a parade and a football game.

Dr. Patricia Pickels, superintendent of the unit school district, put city appreciation aptly in remarks at the Saturday breakfast attended by more than 200 people: "North Chicago is not North Chicago without the Navy."

Pickels, known nationally for raising standards and attaining a new era of academic achievement in the multi-racial community, said "we're proud of our relationship with the Navy." Children of Navy personnel attend North Chicago schools.

Rear Adm. David P. Polatty III, the new Great Lakes commander, making his first public appearance since assuming command in mid-August, said in a keynote address that his

CLC board approves fiscal year 2001 budget

The College of Lake County board of trustees approved a $51.2 million operating budget for fiscal year 2001 following a public hearing. The balanced budget represents a 7.9 percent increase in expenditures over last year's budget of $47.5 million.

"The new budget reflects increases in salaries, medical insurance, equipment, campus maintenance and operation costs," said Peter Krupczak, vice-president of administrative affairs and the college's chief financial officer. "It also reflects increases in state apportionment and property taxes, earnings from investments and revenue from a $1 per credit hour tuition increase. The total tax rate for the next year will be .213 cents per $100 of Equalized Assessed Value," Krupczak noted.

During trustee reports, Vice Chairmen Richard Anderson announced that the groundbreaking for the University Center will be held Sept. 26 beginning at 11:30 a.m. on CLC's Grayslake Campus. Anderson is one of 11 members of the governing board for the center.

In other action, the board accepted $1.13 million in state grants.

goal is to foster closer family ties with the civilian community.

"We're partners in making better lives," Polatty stated in introductory comments. His speech focused on commemorating the sacrifices of American fighting men. Nearly 20 local Korean vets were honored at the breakfast and took part in the parade. Pointing out the U.S. went to Korea 50 years ago in defense of freedom, Polatty said "no war was ever worse."

State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) was among seven people receiving leadership awards. While accepting a plaque, Link challenged Admiral Polatty to join the effort to keep North Chicago Veterans Hospital open. The hospital has been targeted for closing in a consolidation movement.

Other leadership recipients were Machinist Mate First Class (Surface Warfare) Kevin Bacon; Theodore Hudson Jr., member of the Dist. 187 North Chicago board of education; William H. Schroeder, publisher of the Great Lakes Bulletin and 11 Lake County news weeklies; Mike Weakley, North Chicago businessman and civic leader, and Theodor J. Stanulis III, president of Waukegan Savings and Loan, and immediate past president of the North Chicago Chamber of Commerce, and State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest).

Father and son works exhibit

Abstract oil paintings and sculptures by retired College of Lake County art instructor Edmond Kanwischer and drawings by his son Charles will be on display through Oct. 1 at the Community Gallery of Art on the Grayslake Campus. The exhibit titled "Two Generations of Art" consists of 39 pieces of work.

Ed Kanwischer taught at CLC from 1969 until his retirement in 1996.

Charles Kanwischer is an assistant professor of art at Bowling Green State University in Ohio. While his father is both a sculptor and painter of abstract compositions, Charles pursues a more representational art through graphite drawings. Many of his drawings are landscape renderings where forms are softened, broken apart and re-gathered.

The gallery hours are 8 a.m.-9 p.m., Monday through Friday; 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Saturday; 1-5 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call Steve Jones, curator at 543-2240.

Sheriff's Reserve Deputy unit seeking new members

Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re announced the Lake County Sheriff's office Reserve Deputy Unit is seeking new members.

Sheriff Del Re said that the "Reserve Deputy Unit is looking for volunteers to fill several vacancies within the Unit." Typically, the Reserve Deputies work in cooperation with full-time deputy personnel while performing a variety of law enforcement related tasks. Members of the Unit are often called upon to supplement the resources of the Sheriff's office during times of crisis or disaster. These opportunities to work with law enforcement professionals in different situations provides members of the unit with training and experience in the field of law enforcement.

While no prior police experience is necessary to apply for or become a member of the unit, Sheriff Del Re emphasized that candidates are subjected to a background check process similar to that given to regular deputy personnel. In addition, candidates must be at least 21 years of age and be in reasonably good health. Once passing all requirements of the background, those candidates selected for membership on the Unit receive up to 120 hours of training. This training includes, but is not limited to the use of force, crime prevention, traffic direction, emergency management, legal aspects of their function and non-lethal self-defense measures. This training has been designed to prepare new members for successful and safe completion of the many tasks they will be asked to perform. New members will be evaluated closely for a one year probationary period, prior to achieving full membership status.

For further information, any person desiring to volunteer for service to the community while serving on the Lake County Sheriff's office Reserve Deputy Unit is encouraged to contact Sgt. John Crilly at 549-5230.

Tollway take on toll evasion doesn't add up

The Gurnee Village Board took an applaudable step by passing a resolution to investigate why dangerous backups are occurring at the northbound exit at Rte. 132. Similar logjams become apparent to drivers who decide to enter the tollway on the southbound entrance ramp during the early a.m. hours.

The decision came after a tragic car accident killed a woman and two children from Iowa as they sat in traffic about a half-mile from the northbound exit—rear-ended by a semi-trailer truck who failed to stop in time. Traffic in the right-hand lane was backed up about a half-mile from the exit.

Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton said he believes the traffic nightmare began in 1998 after the Toll Authority raised the toll at its Waukegan Plaza from 40 to 75 cents. This, according to him, has resulted in northbound commuters exiting at Rte. 132 in order to navigate around the toll by using Dilley and Hunt Club roads. Similarly, he says some commuters traveling southbound from Wisconsin and northeastern Lake County use side roads to enter the tollway at Rte 132. Village officials maintain they are not trying to assess blame, but are just trying to study the situation.

The Toll Authority is quick to deflect blame for what all travelers using the road already know—there is a dangerous traffic situation near the Rte. 132 ramps. Spokeswoman Joelle McGinnis said in a published report that statistics show drivers are not attempting to avoid Waukegan Plaza's 75-cent toll. What we would like to know is how the Toll Authority can possibly make this statement? According to these "figures," the volume at the toll plaza did decrease slightly after the toll was raised in 1998, but has steadily increased since then. Do tollway officials realize that just because they see an increase, it does not necessarily mean there are not a large number of people avoiding the toll?

People are tired of giving their hard-earned cash to a system that basically answers to no one. When first implemented, the public was told the toll system was supposed to be temporary. But with such a cash-cow, temporary could mean forever. More drivers than the Toll Authority realizes will readily admit to avoiding the coin box. It may not be the lone culprit, but to deny any responsibility at all is wrong. We just hope tollway officials get off their throne and start listening to what Mayor Welton, a man who knows a thing or two about good government, has to say. But then again, maybe the almighty dollar is more important than a human life.

What price paid for new business?

There's apparently no end to which village officials will go to promote growth and development. Or putting it another way, there's apparently no end to which village officials will go to throw off the mantle of residentialism.

Deer Park, a heretofore quiet enclave of 3,000 some souls who reside in mostly upscale homes in south Lake County, has thrown out the red carpet, no, make that bolting head-long, for commercial development by approving a 62-acre office and research complex for Motorola Inc. that will house 2,800 employees. Motorola was reeled in after Deer Park officials earlier landed a shopping mall and office park to utilize a 330-acre site that had been earmarked for commerce.

Mayor Richard Karl trumpeted, "We now have quality development." What Deer Park had before wasn't exactly Dogpatch, unless you consider any home priced under $500,000 a hovel. What Karl seemed to be saying is that his community finally has broken out of the straightjacket of residential rooftops and is going toe-to-toe with go go towns like Vernon Hills and Gurnee.

Village officials cut deals right and left to get Motorola to say "this is where we want to be." The Schaumburg-based electronics giant is bringing a dowry of $700,000 for parks, setting up a purchasing front to funnel sales tax into the village, established a kitty to reimburse Deer Park for extraordinary police costs, pledged a traffic mitigation plan and is joining a village-industry team to extricate funds from the state for highway improvements.

Despite officialdom's euphoria over the gush of commercial development, not everyone in Deer Park is thrilled about sharing their home turf with thousands of shoppers and workers in the office parks. "We're thinking about pulling up stakes," is a commonly heard plaint in the wake of the village board's unanimous decision opening the flood gates for commercialism.

Doubtlessly, some Deer Parkers already are packing their bags. Karl & Co. could care less. They're getting their coveted corporate residents. Household vacancies occurring soon will be filled with newcomers who have no idea about the "good old days" where peace and quiet had real meaning.

Differences abound in political parties

Media wise guys like to crack jokes about the boring similarity between the two U.S. majority political parties. Great fodder for Leno and Letterman, maybe, but they're wrong. Let's do the homework.

Lots of reading and watching what happened at the conventions and paying attention to what Vice President Gore and Gov. Bush have been talking about lately drives home the point there are Grand Canyons of difference between Democrats and Republicans on the national level.

Here's a snapshot of how this observer sizes up how far apart the candidates and parties are on issues that matter to all of us, boiled down to one and two word comparisons:

Amos Jones Field

From now on it's Amos Jones Field at North Chicago High School. Jones became a legend at the school where he coached the Warhawks for three decades through thick and thin times. The likeable leader didn't travel far to find his life's work. Amos grew up at nearby Lake Forest where he was a football and basketball star. He always made life tough for the Libertyville Wildcats so I was happy when he became a dependable end for the University of Illinois where we were classmates. Whoever invented the expression "role model" must have had Amos Jones in mind.

Praises voters

Now that she won't have to campaign against the straight ticket voting bugaboo confronting Democrats in Lake County, incumbent Recorder of Deeds Mary Ellen Vanderventer still is praiseworthy of the individuality of voters. "Voters are very smart," remarks Vanderventer as she goes about the business of getting re-elected Nov. 7. Now that straight voting has been eliminated, Vanderventer jokes, "We won't have to keep saying to voters, 'turn the page, turn the page.'" The personable Waukegan resident broke a half century Republican stranglehold on the recorder's office when elected four years ago.

Future for editors

What happens to editors when they leave their newspaper jobs? They become college professors. At least that's the way things turned out for Sig Gisler, a Lake Forest College graduate who became noted for writing hard-hitting editorials for the Waukegan News-Sun 30 years ago. Later, Gisler rose through the ranks of the Milwaukee Journal to become editor of the prestigious daily. Now the former Grayslake resident resides in New York City where he is on the famed journalism faculty of Columbia University. Sig and his wife, Mary, are confirmed New Yorkers. "We don't even own a car anymore," he related the other day while here for a visit with his father who resides in Mundelein. During a brief chat, we talked about old times so much I forgot to ask him how that well-known former Illinois resident is doing in her campaign for the U.S. Senate.

One man's family

Sporting a new backpack full of supplies, grandson John started first grade. His cousin, Erika, began second grade in Texas with her seventh birthday party. With serious back-to-school business at hand, it's a shame summer was so short. Isn't it always that way?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

It's that simple—no farms, no food

Long before the Gallup Poll came out with their startling revelation in 1984 that 61 percent of all Americans said Americans should "save the land, not money." Two former presidential giants, Thomas Jefferson and Franklin D. Roosevelt, also had very real concerns about topsoil.

Jefferson said, "While the farmer holds title to the land, actually it belongs to all people because civilization itself rests upon the soil." Roosevelt had a more dire warning: "The nation that destroys its soil, destroys itself." I would add, expanding on Roosevelt's comment: "No farms, no food."

Topsoil and open space are directly linked; they are in fact synonymous. It would be understandable in Jefferson's time to continue to squander our land and other natural resources. It would not be too difficult to believe in Roosevelt's day that some destruction would continue to take place with our seemingly endless agricultural abundance.

The greed spawned by our society to make money by over-developing will continue until everything is destroyed, unless we wake up, and quickly. When we realize all life on earth depends on a thin six inch layer of "topsoil" it should make everyone realize just how insignificant we all are, especially elected officials, from President to local school boards. It is a very timely issue, something that every child in America should be taught.

Had the public been listening in 1984 and we saved the land, we wouldn't have the school problems, highway congestion, etc., that we do today. We were told; we did not listen.

Money mill

This November the Forest Preserve District will be asking the Lake County taxpayers to approve a referendum for $85 million. This in addition to the $55 million they asked for and received last year.

I am in favor of the Forest Preserve District buying land while it is still available, but having said that, I don't believe that I must relinquish my right as a taxpayer to ask for an accounting of how last year's $55 million was spent. Keep in mind what Everett Dirksen said years ago, "A million here and a million there, and pretty soon you're talking real money."

I guess my question is this: How much, if any, of the $55 million has fallen through the cracks and has not been used for its original purpose? Words like "incidental," "development," "miscellaneous," and "restoration" make me very wary when big gobs of money are being discussed. Before voting for or against the next referendum where $85 million is involved, I believe that many of my fellow taxpayers would also like to see an accounting of where the first $55 million was spent.

Are we not entitled to that?

Space crunch

In "Viewpoint" of Aug. 11, it was written that many school districts, including Woodland, have applied and received a waiver from the state for the daily physical education requirement. Woodland shares your view on the importance of physical education and in the best case we would offer it everyday to all our students.

The reality is, however, that Woodland schools do not have adequate facilities to safely provide physical education every day. There are just too many students and too little gymnasium space. If we were to offer physical education every

Bridge proposal brings out opposition

Division of Transportation Director Martin Buehler miscalculated the opposition to a proposal to construct a bridge on Gilmer Rd. over Fairfield Rd. in Fremont Township east of Volo. The plan is being denounced by neighbors.

Gilmer intersects diagonally, creating a blind corner. Lake County IDOT engineers see a bridge benefiting safety and aiding traffic flow.

Fremont Township Supervisor Pete Tekampe says the projected $4.2 million cost doesn't justify the need. "Traffic signals would be just fine," declared Tekampe, who discussed the proposal in "make work" terms.

Highway engineers are pushing installation of traffic signals in what used to be country areas. Just made a four-way stop, the intersection of Wilson and Nippersink roads is being used as an example of a formerly rural intersection that will soon have signals installed because of an ever increasing traffic count.

Tekampe called one favorable comment amid scores of opposition at a hearing, an illustration of the extent of support for the Gilmer bridge.

Front door opens

Trustee Kevin Hunter is livid that a group of petitioners has headed off a back-door bond issue for renovating the Fox Lake Village Hall. Following Illinois statutes, the petitioners forced Hunter and his colleagues to put the spending proportion on the ballot Nov. 7. ### How soon? Too soon County Board Rep. Robert Sabonjian (D-Waukegan) is cultivating his reputation as the scold among commissioners of the Lake County Forest Preserve District. Sabonjian says the vote Nov. 7 on issuing more land acquisition bonds for forest preserves is "too soon."

Open for business

Although he's been campaigning for re-election many months, State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) didn't open a campaign office for his 30th District until Aug. 29. Link's headquarters are at 123 N. Waukegan Rd., Lake Bluff. The office is centrally located for the heaviest concentration of voters despite the district stretching into parts of Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

Seeking classrooms

Among a group of close watchers of Grayslake Elementary School operations, the idea has been floated of utilizing historic Lakeview School on Rte. 120 for high school freshmen classes when Lakeview is replaced by a new grades K-4 building in Hainesville for the 2002-3 term. Despite building projects at both high school and grade school levels, construction isn't keeping up with growth and development.

Fete for Scott

Thursday, Oct. 5, isn't a political event, but a large number of politicians will be present for a tribute to retired Circuit Judge Charles "Charlie" Scott at Glen Flora Country Club, Waukegan. Judge Scott began his career in public affairs as a Democratic precinct worker in Cook County. Acquiring a law degree, he moved to Lake County and became a Republican. As the saying goes, "The rest is history," a distinguished career to be recounted at the tribute.

Kirk speaking

The Women's Republican Club of the 10th Congressional District and the WRC of Northfield Township will host a luncheon featuring Mark Steven Kirk at 11:30 a.m., Friday, Sept. 8 at the Highland Park Country Club, 1201 Park Ave. West (east of Rte. 41 at Park Ave. exit) Highland Park. Congressman John Porter, who is retiring, has been invited to introduce him. Reservations are required. Tickets are $20. Call 234-3660 or 251-6460 for reservations.

We're quite good at the name game

Is this a great country or what? Just by being here we get to enjoy such pleasures as the songs of Diana and Christina Ciminella, the movies starring Marion Morrison and Thomas C. Mapother IV, and the incomparable sports skills of Eldrick Woods.

Oh, you don't recognize those names? Maybe it's because those major stars changed them to Naomi and Wynonna Judd, John Wayne and Tom Cruise, and that amazing young golfer, Tiger Woods.

As a child, Eldrick was nicknamed "Tiger" by his dad.

As Shakespeare's Juliet asked, "What's in a name? That which we call a rose by any other word would smell as sweet." But others have asked, "Doesn't one's name sometimes influence the kind of person he or she becomes?"

Onomatologists (people who study this subject) say the relationship between name and personal identity is strong. Our names give us a sense of uniqueness, thus the receiving of one is an event of major importance. We are giving an infant a label that may last a lifetime, a connotation that may affect future business, family and social relationships.

But, alas, some take it lightly. A woman in London named her twin daughters Kate and Duplicate!

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

A friend of mine maintains that if you name a boy Mike he will try to live up to it by becoming an "Iron Mike." (The Ditka type, for example.)

We almost never see a Mike in the school band; Mike is on the football team. Does the nickname "Rocky" mean the recipient must become a tough, rough-and-ready guy?

Could Eldrick Woods have been the great golfer Tiger Woods has become? Would Woody Allen have achieved such movie heights had he kept his real name, Allen Stewart Konigsberg? Tony Curtis as Bernard Schwartz? Kirk Douglas who was born Issur Danielovitch Demsky?

A reference book, "The Name Game," suggests that a Rick or a Ryan is certainly easier to envision as the romantic lead in a movie than, say, a Theodore or a Percival.

Checking my high school yearbook, the most popular names bestowed on boys back then included Robert, James, John, William and Richard.

Last year, according to the World Almanac, despite a deluge of fad names, still the most popular ones for baby boys were Matthew, Christopher, David and Michael.

The most popular girls' names in my yearbook included Betty, Barbara, Dorothy and, of course, Mary.

In recent years, parents have been switching to girls' names like Ashley, Jessica, Sarah, Brittany and Samantha. Quite a change.

No matter what you name your child, his or her peers may corrupt the process with a nickname. A lot of Rays have been labeled "Sugar," a lot of Eddies "Fast," and Sues "Sweet."

I checked with some high school students who told me they have friends called Love Gut, Pound Puppy, Golden Child, Mad Dog, Party Hound and Strawberry Shortcake. The name game continues.

One Zion high-schooler made a name for himself during the streaking craze of the 1970s. On a dare, he "streaked" naked past a crowd gathered for a homecoming bonfire. But everyone knew who did it and he is still famous today as "Streak."

funds. The Democrats have fought against a balanced budget for decades.

Most of the favorable economic policies that have evolved over the more recent years have originated from the Republican House against obstructions from Dick Gephardt and the Democratic leadership (e.g. Welfare reform, tax cuts, elimination of the marriage tax penalty, etc.)

Lastly, I would like to say that I hope Al Gore doesn't spend his entire campaign season on negative campaigning against George W. Bush. So far, all Al Gore has done is talk negative about George W. Bush for his courage, thoughtful ideas and moral leadership. Why can't Al Gore think of something positive and tell us what he's going to do for the country. I hope to see a better reason to vote for Al Gore than to secure Bill Clinton's place in history.

A DIGEST OF STORIES
MAKING HEADLINES
THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Lumber won't seek another term

Round Lake—After 12 years of serving as Round Lake Mayor, James Lumber announced during the regular village board meeting that he will not run for election in April 2001.

"Change will be good for the village. There's a good deal of energy and new people here," he said.

Lumber added the position as mayor is very time consuming and he doesn't plan on running for any other public position. He does plan on continuing his work on the College of Lake County Board.

"I've been there 33 years and it's very rewarding," he said. "Being mayor is more administrative than legislative and I prefer legislative."

Fourth of July crash ruled reckless homicide

Mundelein—The Fourth of July holiday weekend accident that killed the driver and the rear seat passenger has been ruled a reckless homicide by a Lake County Coroner's jury.

The ruling came after a toxicology report showed the driver, 20-year-old Erick Marban had a blood alcohol content of .23, almost three times the legal limit.

Marban, Richard Skrzypinski, 20, and Sara Buchholz, 19, were returning home from a party in the Wildwood/Gages Lake area when the accident occurred. Skrzypinski, who was also killed, had a blood alcohol content of .057.

Village take land in forced annexation

Lindenhurst—At a public hearing held during the course of a regular Lindenhurst Board of Trustees meeting, the board voted unanimously to annex four separate groups of land parcels adjacent to Old Mill Creek.

"This may not be popular with the homeowners," noted Mayor Paul Baumunk, "but we must make decisions for the future."

The mayor pointed out there are no boundary agreements with Old Mill Creek, as there are with Antioch and Gurnee. According to Baumunk, Lindenhurst approached Old Mill Creek in the past, seeking to set Rte. 45 as a boundary between the two villages, but Old Mill Creek was not responsive.

Sports complex could be reality

Libertyville—According to Libertyville Parks and Recreation Dept. director Randy Repelle, the village board will support a sports complex and golf learning center at the northeast corner of Rte. 45 and Peterson Rd.

If approved, the complex would be a joint venture between the village and Equity One Development Corp., at an estimated cost of $7.5 million to the Village of Libertyville.

Instead of raising taxes, board members feel the complex would allow Libertyville to create a positive cash flow while providing residents opportunities they never had before.

Village requires trigger locks

Grayslake—A new local law will regulate how guns are stored in homes in the Village of Grayslake.

Police Chief Larry Herzog explained that the ordinance requires those who have firearms in their homes to secure them with trigger locks or to place them in locked boxes or another location secure from the hands of minors.

The reason for the ordinance is mostly for the protection of children from accidental discharge, said Herzog. He added that, according to figures on a broadcast of "ABC-TV's 20/20" in 1999, individuals with guns kept in their homes are 23 times more likely to have someone in their home injured or killed by a gun.

Train whistles irk Fox Lake

Fox Lake—Safety is one thing, but upsetting residents' peace of mind is another when it comes to loud train whistles.

Fox Lake Mayor James Pappas suggested a village effort to send letters at issue to railroad companies and other officials including the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"In the last six months, the number of those comments about train whistles have increased drastically... It is time that this village and others investigate who the proper authorities are and send a letter to our legislators. In the last six months, it has grown especially worse," Pappas said.

day, there would be over 110 students an hour per gymnasium at the Intermediate School and over 97 students per gym class at Woodland Elementary. These numbers are not conducive to safety.

We hope to alleviate our space crunch and be able to offer physical education everyday by passing a referendum this November to construct a new school and additions. I believe that Lakeland readers will agree that more space is needed to educate Woodland students—both in basic academics and in physical education.

Delayed benefit

I would like to take this opportunity to address several statements made by Vice President Al Gore towards Texas Governor George W. Bush and the Republican Congress.

First of all, I don't believe the Clinton administration can take credit for a strong economy when many economists are giving the credit to a past Reagan-Bush Administration and a current Republican controlled congress. Many economists believe that Clinton coasted through prosperity and that there was, in reality, a delayed effect of the Reagan-Bush legislation with respect to the healthy economy. If this is true, and I believe it is, we have not benefited from the current Clinton Administration but from those policies and freedoms put into place during the Reagan-Bush years. As most people know, there is a delayed effect from legislation that we never see until years later. It was the Republican effort to reduce the national debt that has led to our current balance of

Every sunlamp contains both UVA and UVB rays. Most "fast" tanning beds use very high amounts of UVB (as much as 9%) for shorter tanning sessions. This means more burning and reddening than browning. The StarShip uses extremely high UVA and very low UVB (2.6%). So you get the richest, darkest, most "gentle" tan without the burn.

Help your kids fight germs for the back-to-school season

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the best way to help prevent infectious diseases is by keeping your hands clean; a lesson you might want to teach your children before school starts. Teaching your children how to keep their ever-roaming hands clean is as easy as learning the ABCs, and can help ensure that the only thing they bring back from school is homework. Learning how to combat school bacteria can begin at home by encouraging proper handwashing habits for the entire family.

Teaching kids about proper handwashing at home helps them maintain good habits and according to the CDC, can aid in preventing respiratory infections such as strep throat and gastrointestinal disorders. These new habits can help keep children healthier for the upcoming school year and at home. Parents, too, can use reminders in order to provide a good example for their children.

Finding a hand soap that cleanses properly and is effective for the whole family is an essential element in the fight to keep hands clean. Liquid hand soap in a dispenser is a sanitary and convenient way to wash. Many experts suggest using an antibacterial soap such as CLEAN & SMOOTH, to combat the dirt and grime children's hands inevitably find. Washing hands with plain soap initially removes some germs, but germs left on hands can quickly regrow. Using an antibacterial soap can result in less bacterial growth on the skin than when washing with plain soap.

Between homework and playtime, children can easily forget about proper washing habits or about washing their hands at all—especially if you're not there to remind them. But by continually stressing the importance of not spreading germs to friends and family, and setting a good example yourself, you can help children create healthy habits.

Here are some helpful tips from the handwashing experts at CLEAN & SMOOTH to ensure proper handwashing technique and timing.

How to Wash Hands Properly

1. Be sure to roll up your sleeves and remove jewelry from fingers and wrists.
2. Wet hands with water. According to Mayo Clinic physicians, water temperature makes little difference; it's how thoroughly you wash.
3. Apply soap and wash, rubbing palms together, be sure to reach the top of hands, between fingers and the wrists for at least 10 to 15 seconds. If kids have been playing on a playground, it might also be wise to have them wash their forearms as well.
4. Rinse soap off hands.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the best way to help prevent infectious diseases is by keeping your hands clean; a lesson you might want to teach your children before school starts. Teaching your children how to keep their ever-roaming hands clean is as easy as learning the ABCs, and can help ensure that the only thing they bring back from school is homework. Learning how to combat school bacteria can begin at home by encouraging proper handwashing habits.

5. Dry hands with a disposable paper towel or automatic dryer.

While keeping your hands clean is always important, there are certain times when clean hands are even more crucial to fighting bacteria.

• In the Kitchen

It's important to keep hands clean when eating or preparing food, especially after handling uncooked foods such as meat, poultry or fish.

• Around Infants

Keeping germs away from babies is especially important as their immune systems are still growing and adapting to the environment. Wash your hands before handling an infant and before and after changing diapers.

• In the Bathroom

Bacteria like to linger in bathrooms, so washing up after using the bathroom is one of the easiest ways to help keep these germs at bay.

• When You or Someone Else Is Sick or

Hurt

Washing hands after sneezing or blowing your nose when you are ill can help avoid spreading bacteria, and also when visiting someone who is ill. When treating a wound or injury, it is important to maintain clean hands so germs don't find an easy way in. Kids and dirt go hand in hand, but you can give germs a new resting-place by teaching children proper handwashing techniques and the time to do so. Using an antibacterial soap will help fight germs that lurk around school corners. By using these simple tips, you can educate your children on the importance of clean hands, and encourage a habit that could help keep the whole family healthier throughout the school year.

Psoriasis can be more than a skin problem

Dear Dr. Donohue: My 35-year-old son has psoriatic arthritis. I have never heard of this arthritis. How do you get it? What does the future look like for a person with it? Anything you can explain will be appreciated.—Anon.

ANSWER: Psoriasis can be more than a skin problem. Out of every 100 psoriasis patients, seven come down with joint inflammation — psoriatic arthritis. The arthritis can precede skin manifestations. Both a person's genes and immune system have a hand in producing this arthritis.

Psoriatic arthritis might affect only one joint and never spread. Or it can be a severe, destructive process affecting many joints. Most people lie between those two extremes.

This arthritis often zeroes in on the spine and the fingers. Spinal involvement, naturally, causes back pain. Fingers can swell to the point where they look like small sausages.

TO YOUR HEALTH

Paul G. Donohue,
M.D.

Doctors rely on anti-inflammatory medicines to treat this arthritis, just as those same medicines are used for most arthritis variations. Indomethacin and naproxen are two popular anti-inflammatory drugs. When anti-inflammatory drugs fail to control swelling and pain, doctors can step up to more powerful drugs such as methotrexate and sulfasalazine. Both drugs can take months to kick in, but their beauty lies in the fact that they control both skin and joint psoriasis.

Physical and occupational therapy are fixtures of treatment. Your son ought to avail himself of both. Psoriatic arthritis does not shorten life.

He who hesitates in thinking ...is lost

Dear Dr. Singer,

My son has trouble learning and I've noticed that part of the reason, at least, seems to be related to his need to change subjects frequently. He also seems to hesitate a lot and becomes interrupted. It doesn't seem to matter if he's in a situation that is distracting or not. It happens anyway. This doesn't bode well at school. A lot of the people I've spoken with at school seem to want to group this into the whole attention thing that seems to be so popular today. I don't see it that way because he is perfectly able to do other non-school related things in a smooth flowing way. When it comes to school subjects, however, there is this interruption quality to his work. I know I've read another column in the past about learning that you wrote, but I wonder if you could speak to this issue a little. Thank you. S.L.

Dear S.L.,

I have coined a term that I call, "thought interruption." It involves cognitive processing and hesitation in responding to material. I've noticed that since I've been doing my cognitive processing program, that all the kids I'm dealing with have exactly what you are describing. This is the difficulty with smooth, immediate, thought flow or maintaining the same subject or thought for an extended period of time. It is also a problem with immediate hesitation that blocks the correct synthesis of whatever the child is trying to do. My thought is that if attention is good in other areas besides school, it's a clue that there may be a processing problem occurring. Processing is about interpreting, organizing, manipulating and remembering sensory information (visual, auditory and tactile.) I've had a lot of kids come to my program after having been diagnosed with ADD and having allegedly not had medication work for them. Once we start working with helping the processing skills and the "thought interruption or hesitation" problem, they seem to be able to respond more quickly and handle longer and longer time periods of the work. Additionally, if there is an auditory or visual processing problem, of course their thoughts would be interrupted because anything else would feel better to do than focus on something you can't interpret, maintain or do well.

Most school work takes extended periods of being able to stay with one subject. Much of what kids are exposed to today seems to be the exact opposite. It seems that they are surrounded with stimuli that is done quickly. Even the T.V. shows they watch tend to jump a lot. There is a lot of fast movement from thing to thing. It makes it more exciting, but you have to wonder if the mindset of jumping around rather than staying with one thing is not being trained in more areas of life than one.

I view working with "thought interruption and hesitation" as one of the most important parts of my program. It helps kids to become more automatic in their responses. It also helps kids to stay on target regardless of what distractions there are around them. It helps them to know they need to finish one thing before moving onto the next. It helps them to learn about perfecting skills. It creates a success ethic and expectation inside of themselves.

If your son is not exhibiting these symptoms all throughout his life and environment, than you may want to explore this program and option more thoroughly. If it is happening throughout his life and across situations, other types of treatment may be more appropriate. I'd be glad to talk with you more about this.

What can tomatoes, garlic and grape juice do for you?

Would you believe that eating certain foods could benefit your health? The food that we eat plays an important role in many diseases such as cancer and heart disease. Some foods have actually been shown to have extra benefits besides tasting good. These foods/beverages are called functional foods. Tomatoes, garlic and grape juice are all examples of functional foods. Functional foods are foods that provide health benefits beyond basic nutrition. Eating a balanced diet, with a variety of foods in moderation, along with physical activity are the keys to a healthful lifestyle.

Functional foods can be eaten as part of a balanced diet. "When functional foods are eaten on a regular basis, these foods may reduce your risk for developing diseases like certain cancers, heart disease, osteoporosis, and other health problems," said Toby Stern, a Registered Dietitian with the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center and a spokesperson for the Illinois Dietetic Association.

Examples of functional foods that may reduce the risk for cancer include black and green tea, broccoli, fruits and vegetables, garlic, and tomatoes. Functional foods that have shown to reduce the risk of heart disease are:

fish, fruits and vegetables, garlic, oats and oat-containing products, soy foods and purple grape juice. Yogurt and fermented dairy products may improve gastrointestinal health and prevent osteoporosis.

Some quick ideas on how to add functional foods into your daily eating routine are as follows:

- Mix yogurt with fresh blueberries
- Eat oatmeal for breakfast or a snack
- Eat fresh fruit as a snack
- Stir-fry fresh vegetables with garlic
- Stir-fry vegetables with tofu
- Serve stewed tomatoes with dinner
- Mix soy nuts and dried fruit for a trail mix
- Replace peanut butter with soy nut butter
- Roast garlic and serve as a side dish to any meal

• Make a dip from plain yogurt and serve it with fresh fruit or fresh vegetables

Take a look at your personal medical history and your eating pattern. There may be certain foods that you can add to your current diet or replace in your current diet. Look at the list of functional foods and the suggestions for incorporating these foods into your daily routine.

"Some minor changes in your diet can make a big difference to your health," said Stern.

Money-saving secrets for successful home-improvements

Knowing the seven best money-saving secrets for any home-improvement project will increase the value and the livability of your property, according to best-selling author Bob Easter.

"Over the years I have seen the best and worst remodeling projects. You must know before you start which improvements will add value to your home and which ones will detract or eliminate potential buyers when you do sell," says Easter.

For 24 years this nationally recognized author and real estate broker has been teaching homeowners the insider industry tricks. All kinds of mistakes are made during a home-improvement project and when a home is purchased or sold. Easter points out those crucial errors in his books, "The 14 Home-Selling Secrets, The Mistakes Everyone Makes" ($14.95) and "Home Buying Power, Inside Trips, Tricks and Trends for Buying the Home of Your Dreams!" ($12.95).

"The No. 1 mistake is to start a project without a game plan. Before you undertake any remodeling you have to know how the improvements will effect the resale of your home. While you might not be considering selling now, someday your home will be on the market. I have seen buyers deeply discount the price or outright reject a home over the wrong color décor, tile selections and other amenities which the owner installed," says Easter.

It is easy to understand why so many home buyers and sellers use this expert's sage advice and knowledge about which projects have the greatest return for the money spent. His facts are gathered in the field with actual buyers inspecting and considering homes to purchase. "I've heard all of the horror stories about projects, but really it is pretty easy to avoid running into problems if you follow some guidelines.

1. Never hire the lowest bidder unless you check references of the contractor. A phone call will not do; ask for the address of the property and double-check the name in your phone book to ensure that is the person who actually lives there.

2. All of the work to be done has to be in writing, including how and when the contractor will receive payment for work completed. Never pay a contractor money in advance. If the contractor must have money for materials, pay the supplier directly," says Easter.

Cost overruns quickly can break any homeowner's budget. Easter explains how to keep your sanity and protect your pocketbook in his new special report just released this year, "The Seven Secrets of Any Home Improvement Project."

"I show owners which projects will enhance and add value to their home, plus my books give readers the opportunity to see their home through a buyer's eyes. There is a reason why so many newspapers and other critics love these books. They are easy-to-read and understand," says Easter.

The author's latest book is hailed as a consumer's best guide according to Midwest Book Review. "Home Buying Power!" includes many insights few real-estate guides will publish. The focus on special tips and tricks of the trade sets this apart from standard home-buyer guides and provides many essential insights savvy consumers will want to understand.

Easter's other book also is recommended. Robert Bruss, Tribune Media Services syndicated columnist, says "This (The 14 Home-Selling Secrets) very realistic book is filled with practical advice to home sellers. His advice often is against the best interest of his profession."

Mark Victor Hansen, author of "Chicken Soup For the Soul," has this to add. "Bob Easter and I have been friends for many years. He is Mr. Integrity-personified. He provides a steady course to guide you through the home-selling process by giving you the inside tips and mistakes that everyone makes."

Both books can be ordered at this special reduced combination newspaper price of only $19.95 (US) and come with a 90-day money-back guarantee. The price includes shipping and handling, as well as the free special report, "The Seven Secrets of Any Home Improvement Project." ## Enjoy garden-fresh veggies year long

You love to garden, and spend hours outdoors lovingly caring for your fragrant flowers, gorgeous green shrubs and vibrant vegetables. After months of hard work, you reap the rewards — the seeds that you toiled over have become beautiful blossoming flora.

Your garden is abloom with sweet-smelling flowers and a sea of green plants, trees and bushes. You also have plenty of fresh, home-grown vegetables that are ready to be eaten. One problem though — you've planted so many vegetables that you have no idea where to store them. What should you do? Try freezing them so you can enjoy the taste of home-grown vegetables throughout the fall and winter months.

Following are some simple guidelines for freezing a variety of vegetables commonly grown in home gardens, courtesy of Garden-Guides — a growing resource for gardeners (www.gardenguides.com).

Asparagus — Wash and remove woody portions and scales of spears. Cut into 6-inch lengths and blanch in boiling water for three minutes. Cool in iced water for three minutes. Drain. Place on trays in a single layer and freeze for 30 minutes. Pack into suitable containers, seal and label. It keeps for up to six months.

Carrots — Wash and scrub carrots, and cut large carrots into pieces. Blanch for three minutes in boiling water. Chill in iced water for three minutes. Drain. Spread on a tray in a single layer and freeze for 30 minutes. Pack in freezer bags, remove air, label and seal. It keeps for up to six months.

Cucumbers — Peel and chop in a food processor. Pack into plastic containers with tight-fitting lids. Label and freeze. It keeps for up to six months.

Eggplant — Cut into slices, sprinkle with salt and allow to stand for 30 minutes. Drain off excess liquid, and fry gently in butter or margarine until just tender. Cool and pack into plastic containers. Seal and label. It keeps for up to three months.

Peppers — Wash, remove seeds, and cut into slices or leave whole. Place on a tray in a single layer. Freeze for 30 minutes. Pack in freezer bags, remove air, label and seal. Freeze for up to six months.

Squash — Peel and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Mash, cool and pack into freezer containers leaving room for expansion. Seal and label. Freeze for up to three months.

Sweet potatoes — Peel and cut into pieces. Blanch for three minutes in boiling water, chill in iced water for three minutes. Drain and place on a tray in a single layer. Freeze for 30 minutes. Transfer to freezer bags, remove air, label and seal. It will keep for six months.

Tomatoes — Wash, remove stems, cut into halves or quarters, or leave whole. Dry and pack into freezer bags. Remove air, label and seal. It will keep for six months.

• Dip into boiling water for one minute. Remove and peel. Place on a tray and freeze for 30 minutes. Place in plastic bags, remove air, seal and label. It keeps for up to six months.

• Simmer chopped tomatoes in a pan for five minutes or until soft. Push through a sieve or food mill to remove skins and seeds. Cool and pack in plastic containers, leaving head space. It keeps for six months.

Zucchini — Slice into 1-inch pieces without peeling. Saute gently in a little melted butter until barely tender. Cool, pack into plastic containers leaving head space at the top. Freeze for up to three months.

Booras appointed circuit judge of Lake County

The Illinois Supreme Court appointed Associate Judge James K. Booras as Resident Circuit Judge of Lake County, Nineteenth Judicial Circuit, to the vacancy created by the resignation of Judge Charles F. Scott, according to Chief Judge Henry C. Tonigan. Judge Tonigan made the announcement of Judge Booras' appointment at the meeting of the Lake County Circuit and Associate Judges.

Judge Booras' appointment as a full Circuit Judge is effective immediately and runs until Dec. 2, 2002. To maintain his circuit judgeship after Dec. 2, Judge Booras must be nominated in the March 2002 primary and elected in the November 2002, general election.

Booras, 48, was born in Nestani-Tripolis, Greece on Jan. 1, 1952 and came to the United States in 1970. He received a bachelor of science degree in 1975 from Northern Illinois University and earned his Juris Doctor from Lewis University College of Law in 1979. "Jim Booras came to this country from Greece, learned the language, worked as a dishwasher and other hard jobs to get an education. He truly represents the American Dream," said Senator Adeline J. Geo-Karis.

Prior to his appointment as Associate Judge in 1991, Booras served as an assistant State's attorney under State's Attorney Fred L. Foreman and Michael J. Waller. During his nine years on the bench he has heard all types of cases and is assigned to the Criminal Felony Division. "Judge Booras is an outstanding judge who deals effectively with difficult felony cases that impact the community. He is firm but fair and has a commitment to justice for all," said Judge Barbara Gilleran Johnson, presiding judge of the felony division.

Chief Judge Elect Jane D. Waller commented, "Judge Booras is a fine man and a hardworking judge. I have always been impressed by his desire to do the right thing and to fulfill his responsibilities to the best of his ability."

Judge Booras resides in the Gurnee area with his wife, Irene, and their son, Dean.

Construction bill approved

The U.S. Senate approved a military construction spending conference report that includes $152.5 million for Illinois projects during fiscal year (FY) 2001, U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin said.

Durbin, a member of the Senate Appropriations committee, requested the funding for several of the military construction projects. The conference report reconciled the differences between separate Senate and House bills passed earlier this year.

Durbin said the legislation also provides $144,693,000 for the Great Lakes Naval Training Center (NTC). The legislation divides the money up by providing $35 million for a physical training facility at Great Lakes; $74.7 million for recruit barracks; $11.7 million to replace a training drill hall; and $23.293 million for family housing improvements at Forrestal Village.

The legislation also would provide Scott Air Force Base $1.5 million for a KC-135E Flight Training Facility that will house classrooms, computer-based training areas, publications libraries, study rooms and administrative space for 15-20 employees. The bill also contains $3.83 million for munition storage and land acquisition at Scott.

Durbin said the legislation also includes $2,871,000 for the Aurora Readiness Center to construct a new facility for the Illinois National Guard. House Speaker Dennis Hastert (R-IL) worked to acquire these funds in the House.

The approved conference report now goes to President Clinton for his review.

If you must give up your pet, please consider these facts.

*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.

*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are not reputable and are more concerned about making a profit than the animal.

*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

Pet of the Week

Blanche is a beautiful snow-white girl, only about three years old. She is mild mannered, gentle and a lady through and through. She can be a bit shy at first...but that goes with gentle breeding, doesn't it! Once she comes to know you and her environment she is completely charming.

She lost her home, because her former person was pregnant and foolishly believed the old wives tales about becoming ill from her cat. No amount of explanation or reason would change her thinking and poor Blanche paid the price of misinformation. Actually, under the circumstances, perhaps it's best that she was given up, since now she can find a better home! The Assisi Animal Foundation welcomes new volunteers to join our crew of caring folks who give just one or two morning hours a week...any day, to help the animals. There are lots of ways to do so, such as hands on care for loving well socialized animals sharing a cheerful environment in the FIRST no kill shelter built in McHenry County.

It's rewarding work that you'll be glad you started. For information on adoptions, volunteering, or programs, please call the: ASSISI ANIMAL FOUNDATION at (815) 455-9411.

...Keeping Pace With Today's Families

Family Fitness

Fall is the perfect time to lace up your walking shoes and hit the trails and roads to continue your quest for fitness. Enjoy the crisp, clear days of autumn.

For Your Health

Children with undiagnosed hearing or vision impairments often face agonizing challenges at school. Just imagine what it must be like for a child who can hardly hear the words of his or her teacher, or barely see the writing on the blackboard.

Parent Time

It's that wonderful time of year again! Parents are singing hallelujah and dancing a little "back to school jig" and kids are woefully moaning and resentfully doing their "back to school mope."

Sheltering friends

FAMILY FEATURE

By Robin Majewski, V.A.

Whether you're seeking companionship for your family or an opportunity to teach your children the benefits and responsibilities of pet ownership, Save-A-Pet in Grayslake is one option for adopting a new family best friend. The no-kill shelter also offers opportunities for volunteering.

When most people hear the words "Animal Shelter" they immediately conjure up pictures of animals in small, dirty, cages. They picture malnourished, abused animals. Unfortunately, in some cases, these pictures are all too real, but not in the shelters I would like to tell you about. In what I hope to be a series of articles, this being number one, I hope to bring to your attention the good qualities of "Animal Shelters", the animals in these shelters, and the hundreds of people who are involved in caring for these animals.

Save-A-Pet is a not-for-profit, no-kill animal adoption center located at 31664 N. Fairfield Rd. in Grayslake, IL (Phone 847-740-7788). I have worked for and with Save-A-Pet for over three years. Currently I am a foster home for animals that have been injured and are under medical care, or animals that are too young for adoption. Rather than keeping these animals in the center, Save-A-Pet has a network of approximately 37 foster homes that open their doors to these animals. Some stay for a week or two while others stay for months. While in foster care, the foster homes provide love and care and much needed socialization for these animals. When healthy and old enough, these animals are returned to Save-A-Pet for adoption. This is harder than you may think. Imagine having a kitten in your home for three or four months. You care for this kitten and nurse it back to health only to have to relinquish it to someone else. Sometimes this is impossible, just ask my five cats and three dogs!!

Save-A-Pet also takes in sick or injured animals. Often these animals have been on their own for years. They may have been hit by cars, or mistreated by a past owner. Many of these animals are caught by local animal control officers. When these animals first arrive at Save-A-Pet they are given an incoming physical. The animal health staff evaluate each and every animal. They carefully check the animals' general health, ears, eyes, mouth (including teeth and gums), determine if the animals are spayed or neutered, they even clip their nails. Each dog is tested for heartworm, and given a distemper shot. If the heartworm test is negative they also receive heartworm medication. Each cat is tested for feline leukemia and feline immune deficiency virus. The cats are given a feline distemper shot and also a deworming medication (worms are commonly found in cats that is why they automatically receive this medication). These animals will also have a "fecal" test done to rule out other parasites.

Any animals that are more seriously injured or have other medical conditions (such as heartworm disease) are taken to one of the many veterinarians that provide their services to the shelters. Sometimes these services are at no cost or at reduced cost. One of these veterinarians is Dr. Lewis Seidenberg of Riverwoods Pet Clinic in Lincolnshire. Dr. Seidenberg has been in practice for over 30 years and has provided Save-A-Pet with his services for nearly 30 years. Dr. Seidenberg performs a large portion of the spay/neuters for Save-A-Pet as well as general veterinary needs. Every Tuesday Dr. Seidenberg goes to Save-A-Pet and evaluates animals at the animal health departments request. Dr. Seidenberg is also a past board member and currently a voting member. Dr. Seidenberg is only one of the veterinarians that help Save-A-Pet. Save-A-Pet also uses the two local emergency clinics, Animal Emergency in Libertyville, and All Creatures Emergency in Grayslake.

Cages are usually used to house sick animals while under the watchful eye of the animal health staff. These cages are cleaned daily and each animal is given special attention including any medications needed. The animal health staff makes daily assessments to determine if the animals are well enough to be adopted, and if so releases them.

Small dogs and puppies are usually short-term residents of the shelters for obvious reasons. The remainder of the dogs are housed in runs which have two sides separated by a divider. This is so while one side is being cleaned the dog can go to the other side. The kennel staff is courteous and caring. Because they work with these dogs daily they usually know the temperament and personal characteristics of most of them. Save-A-Pet also has several volunteer dog walkers that come in daily to exercise the dogs in these runs. They are walked in a field out back or often taken to the play-yard and allowed to run and play for a while. Without these volunteers this would not be possible.

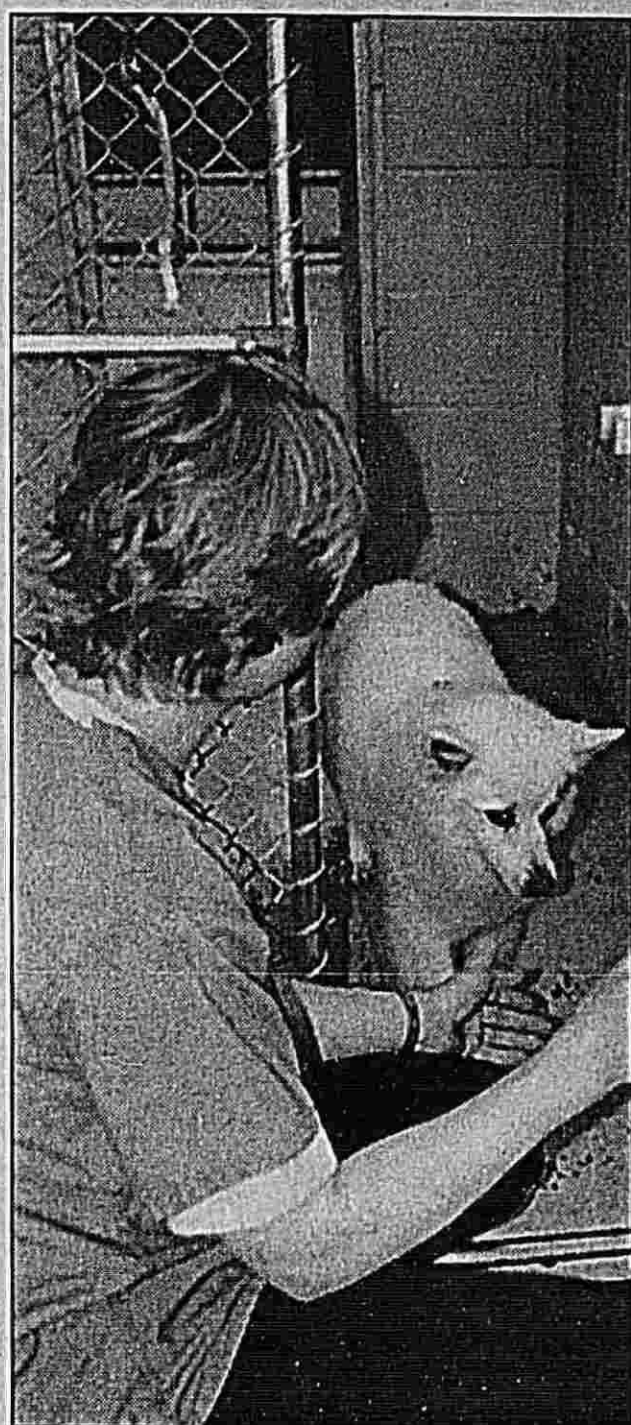

Let's talk cats. Save-A-Pet houses approximately 150 cats. While some of these cats are housed in roomy cat condos due to medical or special dietary needs, most have free run of the main cat room. The cat room itself is 30 x 15 feet. There is a screened porch for use in summer and two smaller rooms for additional space. The cat room along with the condos are cleaned daily by a group of volunteers and employees. These volunteers and employees know each cat, even if it doesn't have a name collar, and know most of their personalities. They care for these animals as if they were their own. Again without them this task would be impossible.

Kittens are housed in a separate room, some in condos. This room is cleaned daily, and as needed throughout the day.

Save-A-Pet, staff and volunteers, are knowledgeable and courteous. They will assist you in any way they can. All you have to do is ask. Because of limited funding however, they are often short staffed, so be patient.

I hope you will visit Save-A-Pet or one of the other shelters in our area. Remember you don't have to take an animal home, you could just go to look. Sign up to be a volunteer, take a dog for a walk, make a donation (shelters receive 100 percent of their operating funds from donations) or adopt a new member for your family. And remember to thank all of the people involved in the care of these animals.

And to all involved, Dr. Seidenberg, the shelter management team, the wonderful animal health staff, the kennel staff, and the adoption counselors and volunteers, I personally thank you and applaud your continued efforts on behalf of these animals. Where would they be without you?

For directions and hours to Save-A-Pet, located at 31664 N. Fairfield Road in Grayslake, call Save-A-Pet at 847-740-7788. ♦

Walk your way into a fitness regime

Fall is the perfect time to begin a fitness routine by walking the neighborhood, parks and forest preserves

Crisp, clear autumn days! Nature's most beautiful time of year: leaves turn from green to scarlet, yellow, and orange; warm days and cool nights; enjoy the rewards of a bountiful harvest. Fall is the perfect time to lace up your walking (or running) shoes and hit the trails and roads to continue your quest for fitness! From the late '60s and '70s through the '80s and '90s until now, running and walking continue to be one of the most popular forms of exercise. Just about anyone of any age can participate virtually any where in almost any weather - that's what makes it the ideal exercise choice for so many. Here's how you can step it up.

When you begin your walking program remember to start slowly. (Don't forget to consult your doctor before beginning this or any exercise program!) Set small, obtainable goals daily: park in the last row at the mall, take a 5 - 10 minute walk on your lunch or coffee break, grab the kids and walk to the park. Once you've added small bouts of walking into your daily routine you'll be yearning for more.

When you're ready for the next level set aside 20 - 45 minutes a day for your walk. Some is better than none! If you only have time for 15 minutes that's OK! Pick a time of day that you can stick with - first thing in the morning, lunch time, or right before or after dinner. Whatever fits best with your schedule. Try to be consistent. If you make exercise a part of your daily routine it will soon become a part of your lifestyle. Then start slowly and build upon your success. Walk short distances 2 to 3 times per week and gradually increase your distance and sessions. Also, forget about speed. Keep the pace comfortable focusing on your posture - head up, shoulders relaxed, and arms swinging naturally.

After a few weeks you'll feel your increased energy levels and slimmer shape and you'll be ready to increase your intensity level! You can accomplish this by either increasing the length of your walk - time or distance - or by picking up your pace. Make your stride more determined pumping your arms at your side. Remember, studies have shown that walking just two miles a day can significantly lower the risk of premature death from all causes including cancer and heart disease (New England Journal of Medicine January 8, 1997.)

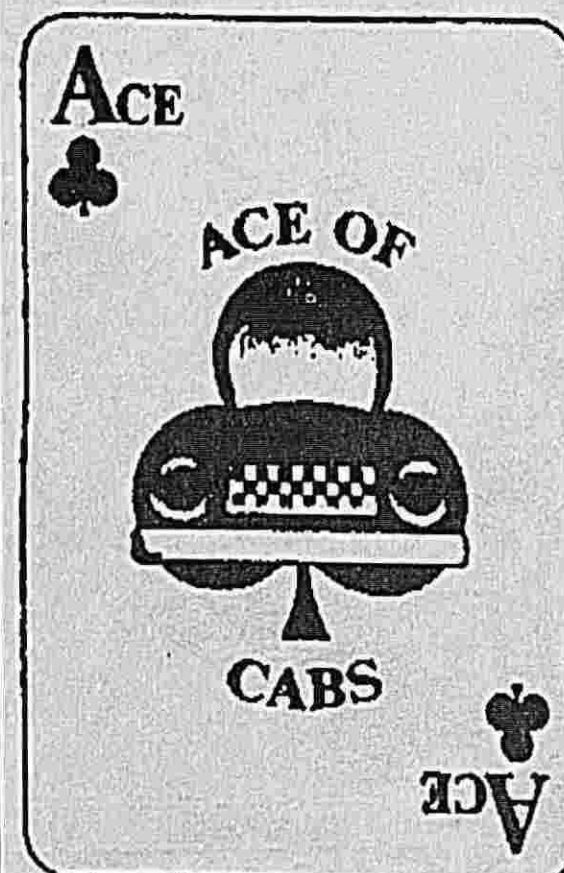

Relax! Exercise is an excellent way to relieve stress; don't let it become a source for more! When you are walking let your mind wander; try not to let the worries of your day cloud your thoughts. If you need help letting go try reciting a "mantra." Repeat a word or phrase over and over to the beat of your footsteps. This will help you to relax and not let worries crowd your mind. A line from your favorite song also works well!

Fall Into Fitness ....

Don't let the weather prevent you from walking - just be prepared! If it's cool outside wear layers of warm clothes to trap warm air close to your body. As you warm up during your workout you can remove layers as necessary. When it's very chilly be sure to wear your hat and gloves. When the weather is warm wear light, loose fitting clothing, a hat to shield your face, and sun-screen. If it's raining or snowing take your walk indoors to the mall. Some malls open early to accommodate the "mall-walkers." In any weather, indoors or out, always be sure to drink lots of water. Consume at least eight ounces of water before, during, and after exercise.

Don't let sore feet slow you down! Retire that beat up pair of walking shoes that you've been wearing for the last five years! Visit an athletic shoe store and enlist the help of their knowledgeable sales staff and buy a pair of proper fitting shoes. This one purchase can mean the difference between a successful walking program or an unsuccessful one. Shop for your shoes at the end of the day. It is not unusual for your foot size to increase by one-half of a shoe size during the course of a single day!

How do you stay motivated?
Here are a few ways to stay on course:

- Find a walking buddy! One of the best ways to stick with it is to walk with a friend. When you're not up to it they are and vice versa!
- Music! Wear headphones and play your favorite tunes. Keep the volume down so you can be aware of traffic and your surroundings.
- Keep a fitness log. Record your progress in a journal. It's an excellent way to monitor your success.
- Participate in a group event. Two great choices take place in September:

The Condell Distance Classic on Sunday, Sept. 17 has a one mile walk as well as a 5K and 10K run/walk. Call 847.990.1283 for details.

The Highland Park Hospital Health and Fitness Center's 2nd Annual "Celebrating Fitness" 5K run/walk on Sunday, Sept. 24. Call 847.229.0292 for details.

However you choose to accomplish your fitness goals autumn is an excellent time to begin. As the weather turns and the leaves change you too can turn into who you want to be and change your lifestyle into an active one. It all begins with one small step. Stay energized!

Have a family fitness program you'd like to see highlighted? Contact Suburban Family at www.suburbanfamily.com and we'll do our best to feature your activities. ♦

Early detection is key to treating hearing & vision impairments

FOR YOUR HEALTH

By Leslie Piotrowski, M.S.
Communications Manager,
Lake County Health Department
Community Health Center

Children with undiagnosed hearing or vision impairments often face agonizing challenges at school. Just imagine what it must be like for a child who can hardly hear the words of his or her teacher, or barely see the writing on the blackboard.

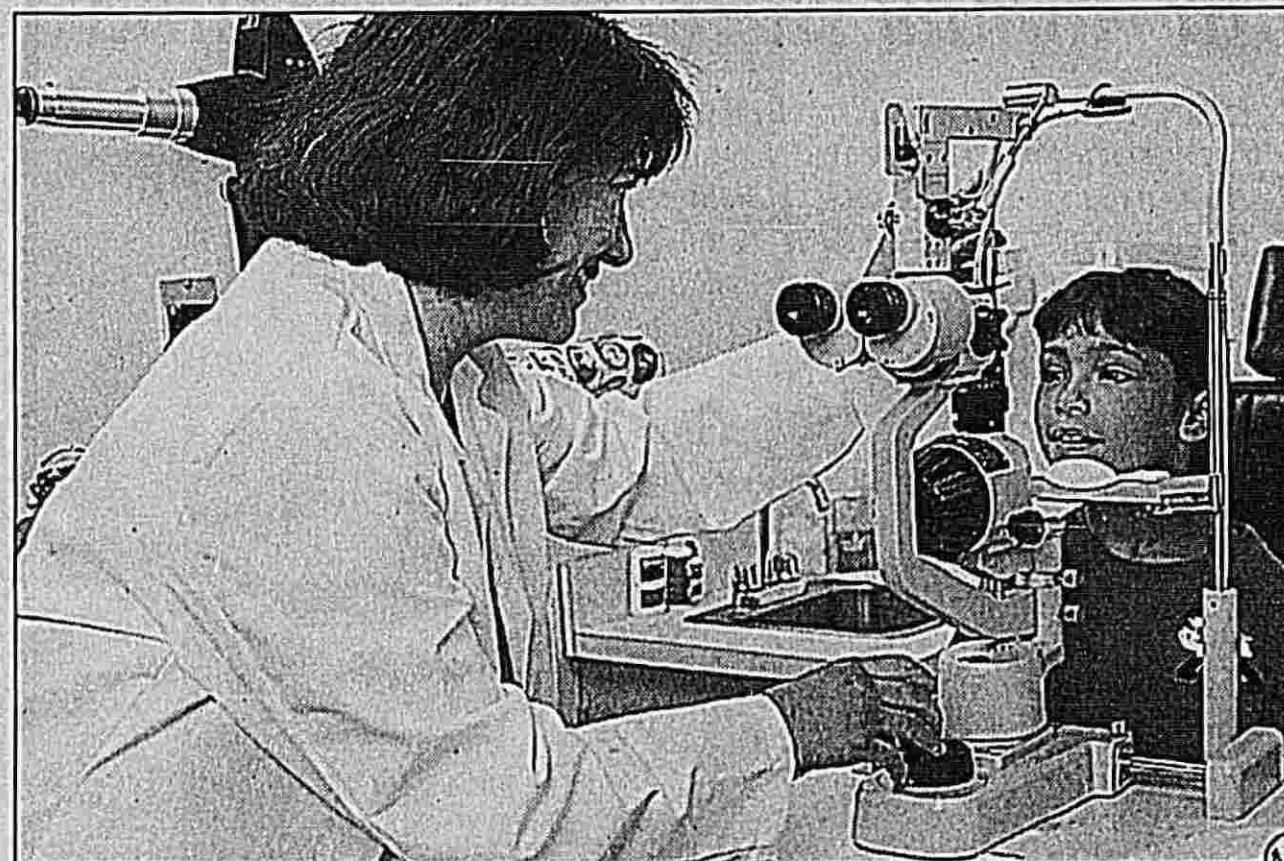

Unfortunately, many children with impairments are unaware that they have a problem, and don't know to seek help. If a child with impaired vision has always seen things in a blurred or distorted way, he or she will accept the imperfect image without question. Along the same lines, children who have always had impaired hearing don't realize that their hearing ability is limited.

A hearing impairment can seriously affect a child's ability to communicate because it interferes with the development of normal language and learning. It may also affect a child's ability to develop normal speech and can interfere with schoolwork. A hearing or vision impairment can affect a child not only physically, but emotionally as well. Impaired vision in children can seriously impede learning, and as a result, contribute to behavioral problems.

Early detection and treatment can help prevent or at least alleviate many of these problems. The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center launched a Hearing and Vision Program in 1964. It began with two technicians and 30 schools. Today four technicians, certified by the Illinois Department of Public Health, work with 113 public and private schools and 161 preschool/day care centers. Last year alone, they provided 28,000 vision screenings and 35,000 hearing screenings.

The technicians visit facilities throughout Lake County. In accordance with state mandates, hearing screening is provided to preschool children 3 years of age or older, as well as children in kindergarten, first, second and third grades, special education students and teacher referrals. Vision screening is provided for preschool children 3 years of age or older, children in kindergarten, second grade and eighth grade, special education students and teacher referrals. In addition to non-diagnostic screening, the program provides re-screening, referral and follow-up in preschools, daycare centers, private schools and public schools without technicians, and maintains a shared responsibility relationship with public schools that have technicians.

Not that long ago, children were often institutionalized for undiagnosed vision and hearing problems. Hearing and Vision programs, such as the Health Department's, have played a key role in helping children to be diagnosed and treated. They also have played a crucial role in helping children maximize their educational experiences. Because of the success of these programs, we hear less often about tragedies that can occur when problems go undetected.

Parents are dancing the "Back to School Jig;" "Kids are doing the Back to School Mope!"

PARENT TIME

By Dr. Sherri Singer
Licensed Clinical Psychologist and Childhood Behavior Specialist.

Hi Folks,

It's that wonderful time of year again! Parents are singing hallelujah and dancing a little "back to school jig" and kids are woefully moaning and resentfully doing their "back to school mope." I'd like to devote this column to some suggestions I have for having a good school year. If you get on top of things from the start, things can work out far better.

1 If your child's teacher informs you of behavior problems, make sure to have a good system of rewards and consequences in place to handle the behavior in school. Remember, it is important to connect either positive or negative appropriate consequences to behavior, even if it is several hours later. Kids need to connect their behavior with their consequences so they learn not to do it again. It is even better if the school has some form of meaningful consequence so that it is more immediate, but it is just as easy to have good communication with the teacher and then help your child remember the actions that caused the consequence.

2 Make sure that homework is done on a schedule. Don't just wait for the child to get around to the homework. Assign a time for every day, in which, homework is the only thing done. If it is structured and done at the same time each day, it becomes more important and is remembered more easily.

3 If your child asks for help with homework, instead of just giving the answers or doing the homework for him (none of us would ever do something like that...right?) gently pull the answers out of the child. Help the child do the reasoning even if it takes a little longer. The child will gain far more from that than just having you correct it for him.

4 If you suspect a problem, get your child tested immediately. You do not need to wait for the school to do the testing. There are many, many kids waiting for case studies these days. Each day you wait is a day your child is not getting help. The faster your child is tested, the better. Private testing can be faster. Call me! I can help with this.

5 Make sure your treatment is targeted to your child's problem. If your child's problem is simply an academic one, tutoring is probably okay. If, however, you suspect processing problems, get help immediately. Processing problems can range from mild memory problems to absorption problems (not absorbing everything that is seen or heard) to organizational problems (not keeping track of assignments) to follow-through problems (not finishing homework) to complete sensory overload problems (what I call, "Deer in the Headlights Syndrome"). While school does have LD services, the types of problems I mention here are not usually directly trained in school (even LD class) and do not respond to LD type of treatment. These kinds of problems require intense one-on-one training to improve. Additionally, they do not usually get better with time or age. They require direct intervention. Since the level of work difficulty in school increases each year, and processing problems do not get better with age, the child with processing problems becomes more and more discouraged over time until he or she can become extremely avoidant of all school work.

Additionally, acting out or depression can occur if the child gets frustrated enough. This can be devastating to the child's future. If your child isn't absorbing things around him now, it will effect his entire learning experience and his opinion of learning. Treatment that improves absorption is the best thing for these types of problems. This treatment targets the specific roots of the problem and eradicates them. This type of treatment is done without the use of drugs as well. Take care of it early and it can resolve itself more quickly than you think. Call me and we can do an evaluation. I can help you determine if processing is a problem for your children so we can train them and get them processing things smoothly for a great school year.

6 Try and train your kids to do a little studying each night instead of large amounts right before the test. There is research out there that suggests that studying a little every night and sleeping on it solidifies memory more than cramming the night before a test. We all know this intuitively and we say it to our kids but don't usually enforce it. Make sure there is at least 10 minutes of the night to go over the new material from the day.

7 Teach your child about breaks. It is important for even young kids to learn about hard work and taking breaks every so often. Show them how it's done. They will develop more of a fondness for getting the job done.

8 Never believe that your child "can't learn." Being a psychologist, I have had many people bring their kids to me for processing help and have heard it all. I have had many a psychological report come into my office telling me, and the parents, that the child is not capable of learning or has some unmovable problem that will not change and that parents better just lower expectations. I have always said, and will say, that this is a pile of hooey!

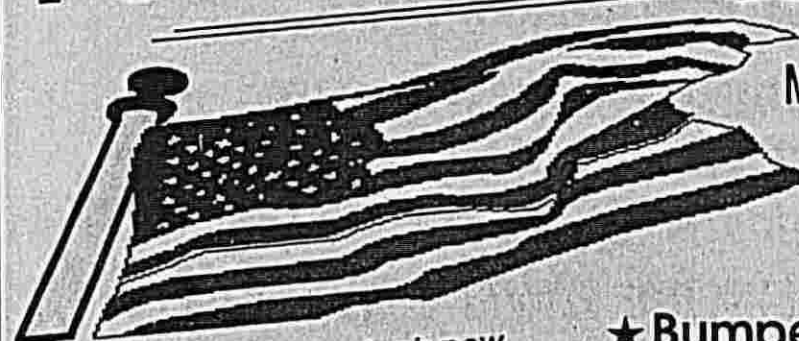

Unless your child actually has a physical barrier to learning, your child can learn voraciously if given the right training. Most kids who look like they can't learn, are just so sick of being maligned because they don't learn like the other kids, that they just avoid trying anymore. I have seen many kids like that start to believe in themselves just by hearing me continue to tell them that they CAN, and also by showing them that they can over and over and over again.

Do not ever give up on your child's potential, even if your information comes from an "expert." I happened to catch just a few minutes of a movie I have yet to see but will see as soon as I get some time. It was called "The Miracle Worker." You might be familiar with it because it is an old movie with Patty Duke and Melissa Gilbert. This was the story of Helen Keller and her teacher. This was a teacher who never gave up on Helen Keller and actually taught communication skills to this girl who was blind, deaf and mute. Now, it is a true story! If this could happen with a child with mechanical issues like those, any child has the potential to shoot for the stars if given the right direction long enough! Enough of a pep talk. Hope the beginning of school is a good one for you and your kids!

Dr. Sherri Singer is a Licensed Clinical Psychologist and Childhood Behavior Specialist. She regularly works in person with many readers of this column, helping them to significantly improve their kid's behavior and learning skills fast. Among many other services, she offers a "Parent Survival Training" class for parents. This private program lasts 3 weeks and has helped countless families to restore good behavior to their kids and peace and quiet to their homes! She is the author of, "Why Kids Misbehave" and "Raising Kids Who Don't Become Your Worst Nightmare." ## If your child has problems learning in school, a screening may find the cause

Your child may have 20/20 eyesight but 0/0 vision - the difference is critical.

Eyesight is merely the basic ability to see; vision is the ability to identify, interpret, comprehend, and act on what is seen.

Routine vision test performed by school personnel or by most eye care professionals measure eyesight. They do not include the kinds of testing that can find visually related learning problems.

COULD YOUR CHILD BE AT RISK?

Our visual processing therapy program can diagnose and successfully treat vision problems that are often reflected in the following behaviors:

1. Unable to sit still; cannot stay on task for any length of time.
2. Very clumsy; poor eye-hand coordination.
3. Does written work very slowly, often fails to complete a task.
4. Has difficulty copying visual material.
5. Moves entire head instead of just eyes when reading.
6. Reversals - for example: confusing the words "was" and "saw" or letters "b" and "d".

7. Is disorganized and frustrated when studying visual information.
8. Makes frequent, "careless" errors.

If your son or daughter, age six to 16 has one or more of these behaviors, call 847-362-9900 today to schedule a screening for vision-related learning problems. It could be the most important phone call you will make during his or her school years.

THE SCREENING INCLUDES AN EVALUATION OF:

Visual Memory: The ability to store and retrieve visual information.

Concentration: The ability to maintain a visual task without distractions.

Reversal Frequency: Confusing letters (b,d,p,q).

Visual Integration: The ability to combine visual input with other sensory or past inputs.

Motor Speed and Precision: Eye-hand coordination.

Acuity Defects: Near-sightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism.

Eye Teaming/Focusing Skills: The ability to maintain clear and single vision at distance and near for prolonged periods of time without discomfort or abnormal effort.

Visualization: Ability to develop a mental picture - closely related to comprehension.

Visual Style: The evaluation of how a person performs a visual task in terms of accuracy, speed, and energy used.

THE SCREENING CONSISTS OF 14 DIFFERENT TESTS AND TAKES APPROXIMATELY ONE HOUR.

41% of students in the lower third of a normal class and 68% of students in special education programs have vision problems that can be corrected. Could your child be among them? Call us at 847-362-9900 to schedule your screening appointment.

WHAT IS OUR STRATEGY?

First we test and diagnose a child's visually related learning problems. If a visual handicap exists, a vision therapy program will be developed to meet the child's special needs. Once enrolled in our intensive visual processing program, a child will work on specific goals. A professional vision therapist will conduct carefully sequenced activities to strengthen weak areas in order to bring the "vision system" up to par. The time span for therapy is designed to allow each child to achieve maximum results.

WILL INSURANCE COVER THE COST?

Here is a comforting thought. Our program may be covered by your major medical insurance policy.

THE TIME TO ACT IS NOW!

If your child is between the ages of six and 16, call us today at 847-362-9900 to set up an appointment for a screening. Any unexplained learning problem is a potential vision-related learning problem. When diagnosed early, visual processing therapy can significantly improve and often alleviate the problem entirely.

The comprehensive screening is available. Can you afford to pass up this possible explanation for your child's baffling lack of success in school? Call 847-362-9900 today.

WHAT PARENTS HAVE TO SAY ABOUT VISION THERAPY PROGRAM...

"I can highly recommend anyone with any questions about their child's performance, after going through the program successfully with two of my children."

E. Teenpessan

"Personality has changed in that Melissa seems to be much more forward in her relationships with other people. Her school has also improved significantly."

J. Zeman

Next Screening Date:
Wednesday, September 6th & Wednesday, September 20th

HOPE is main goal as cancer survivors, friends walk

Hope was the most positive message spread throughout Paulus Park in an overnight campout aimed to help wipe out cancer. It was spelled out on the ground, but one could also see it in the faces of dozens of youth and adults. Some touched by the many forms of the disease, others not, pitched tents and sang songs, roasted marshmallows, and wore crazy hats this cool August Saturday night. But mostly, they walked around the Lake Zurich park.

And walked.
And walked.

When it was all over, about 8:30 a.m. Sunday, more than $63,000 had been raised for the American Cancer Society research. Kirk's Crusaders, of Arlington Heights, was the winning fund-raising team.

"Alex Paris was here and spoke briefly. She is fighting a battle right now. It is a great honor because she continues to go through treatment. She led the Relay. She did three laps with them. Very inspirational. You saw people as young as 1.5 years to their 80s. It makes you want to fight," said Mari Thompson, who organized the survivors' tent at Relay for Life.

Paris is an 8-year-old from Wauconda battling cancer. She served as the event's honorary chairman.

"The residents of Lake Zurich were very supportive. Most of the people we have here tonight are residents. When we started planning this months ago, we thought we would be roasting. But it is a beautiful night. This is a great event for cancer awareness," Thompson said.

Jean York and her family were on hand to support her son, a 14 year-old Lake Zurich High student. "They feel more comfortable and a willingness to talk about it," York said.

Rick Schaefer is another one of the cancer survivors on hand this weekend.

HOPE

"Everybody here is so much like family. People are so close," Schaefer said.

Schaefer suffers from testicular cancer, first diagnosed in 1985. "You should be aware of it and go to your doctor at any sign of trouble. I had it starting at age 37.

Lance Armstrong (professional bicyclist) had it and almost waited too long. It is important to have a positive attitude as possible," he said.

"Alex is such a fighter," he said.

"For cancer patients, the way we approach this today, whether we are sick, well, makes a real difference in how we affect lives of those around us. Each of the people we honor are courageous in their own way. Many are recovering from cancer, or some who are still in treatment. We are here to offer our hopes, prayers, support, expectations. This event demonstrates, in a true way, that people do care deeply. We draw strength and great optimism from the increasing number of people who survive cancer. We come together to celebrate life and to honor those who have gone before us. Cancer shows no preference—it takes young, old, father, mother, sister, husband, wives, children and friends," said Don Snetsinger, a Lake Zurich resident and co-chair of Relay for Life.

Steve Brown, a Lake Zurich resident who died from cancer last year, had more than 30 luminaries placed in his honor.

"The Brown family was really touched because there were 20 people around them," said Thompson, of Barrington.

Eight-year-old Sarah Thompson knew what she liked best about Relay for Life.

"When we walked," she said.

More than 30 businesses and individuals were thanked in a program for lending support. Ela Community Singers provided entertainment. A sunrise service was provided by Pastor Mark Sundberg, Peace Lutheran Church. Helping Hands Therapy provided massages for walkers.

Following the luminary ceremony of some 1,000 candles, a cancer survivor of four years and a sister of a cancer victim began walking the half-mile route again. "It has been a different life. The support keeps you fighting," she said.

"Cancer stinks" was a message on one of the dozens of pup tents, but with the enthusiasm here, few got more than an hour or so of sleep.

Signs placed throughout the walk gave the stark realities of cancer. They urged people to quit smoking as a quality of life issue. Women were encouraged to have mammograms past age 40 as a matter-of-course. Another read 80,000 Americans will survive cancer. Another said eight million will be touched by it.

"The community really pulled together. It was just incredible. The people really went the extra distance to try and find a cure for cancer," said co-chair Karin Touve. "We started small, with about 10-12 people and it grew steadily."

One by one, people used a black magic marker to make a message on the "wall of memories," located off to one park section. "I'll miss you, grandma," one read.

'Cancer shows no preference — it takes young, old, father, mother, sister, husband, wives, children and friends'

Still a burbie girl, in my burbie world

I have often wondered what it would be like to be a cosmopolitan sort of girl. By that, I don't mean the magazine, because I have way too many kids to even fantasize about being THAT sort of girl. In a house where the kids think "hormone" is a swear word, it would be impossible to explain why I was greeting Daddy at the door dressed in nothing but Saran Wrap. Also, "clear" is not my color.

No, what I mean by "cosmopolitan" is an urbane, sophisticated type. Someone who is well traveled and schooled in the ways of the world, someone as comfortable riding camels in the Sahara as sipping coffee in a trendy little Paris sidewalk café.

And if riding camels and sipping coffee were the only qualifications, well then, I'd already qualify. I'll have you know that I HAVE ridden a camel (okay, it was in a circle for $3 at the zoo), and I have sucked down coffee in several of these United States. Yet, I still don't feel either urbane or sophisticated.

I just feel suburban. It would help if I got out more. I am what one might call a "burbie girl", having lived in the suburbs all of my...29 plus years. And although in my day job I work for a corporation that does business on a global scale, they never seem to want to send me anywhere that would improve my sense of worldliness, not to mention adding free airfare miles to my credit card.

Not that I haven't tried. Anytime they discuss the next upcoming business trips to, say, Japan or Belgium or France, I'm right there volunteering.

"Pick ME, pick ME! I'll go!"

"YOU? And why would we send you?"

"Because you like me?"

"Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

This used to bum me out, until I realized I'm probably just too important to the company to risk sending me overseas and losing me in a rebel insurgency or something. But one day recently, I got my big chance. The director of business development told me she wanted me to accompany her on a one-day business trip.

"Really? Where...Europe? Australia? The Middle East? I have camel riding experience, you know..."

She shook her head. "Chicago."

Oh, well, it was a start. I was going to the big city. And truthfully, I would have been nervous about it except that I wasn't traveling alone.

At least I wasn't until I got a voice mail from her the day before our "trip".

"Sorry, but I'm really busy right now, and I think you can handle this on your own. No need for us both to go."

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

Gulp. Me? Alone? In the city?

There's something about a big city like Chicago or New York that gives me the feeling that the residents all know some big secret that we suburbanites aren't let in on. A way of dressing, walking and behaving, mostly to avoid mugging. This makes me paranoid—I feel sure they (i.e. muggers) can tell I'm from the suburbs and, therefore, an easy target. As if no matter how much I bathe, I'll still smell like Tupperware.

But I had no choice, so I tried to put aside my fears. You can do this, Donna, I told myself.

I prepared that morning by trying to look as much like a city person as possible. Meaning, I wore all black, wiped the friendly suburban smile off my face, and packed a can of pepper spray in my briefcase.

Then I was off to Chicago. And I must say that my trip was mostly successful. I accomplished my company's request and learned a few things about big city travel, such as:

1. Parking at the train station is $1.50 and is based on "the honor system". Which is good, since I only had $1.10 in change and not much honor.

2. Not everyone who chases you off the train wants to kill you. Sometimes they just want to give you your briefcase that you left on your seat.

3. City cab drivers, even when they are American, do not speak English. I learned that "sckfwep" means "Get out, stupid. This is Rush Street" and "dkeiowl" means "Thanks, cheapskate!"

Of course, one short trip to Chicago was not enough to change my "burbie girl" status. But at least I can add it to my resume and, next time I meet with my boss for my annual review, I can wow him with my knowledge of big-city jargon. When he tells me how much my raise will be, I'll just say, "dkeiowl".

That ought to get me somewhere.

Richards to speak at Senior Lifestyle Expo

The 5th Annual Senior Lifestyle Expo, the largest tradeshow for seniors in Illinois, is a full two days of entertainment, information and fun. On Sept. 6 & 7, the Drury Lane Oakbrook Terrace will be the hub of senior life in Illinois. presented by the Northeastern Illinois Area Agency on Aging, this year's Expo will be the largest ever.

"Our exhibit space has sold out and ticket sales are booming," says Connie Kobitter, spokesperson for the event. "Again this year, we hope to offer seniors and their caregivers two days of non-stop entertainment, as well as much needed information to make their senior years more enjoyable."

More than 100 exhibitors will offer information on nearly every aspect of mature life, including travel, health issues, housing and finance. Seminars will also be available for further information on such topics. In addition to the popular screenings that will be offered, seniors will be able to talk to other exhibitors about the latest in healthcare advances.

New this year will be a Golf Swing Analyzer, sure to be a popular exhibit with the many seniors who golf. This computerized exhibit can show you the speed, distance and accuracy of your swing, with a golf pro on hand to offer tips to improve it.

A highlight of this year's Expo is the presentation by Ann Richards, former Governor of Texas. Ms. Richards has become a women's health advocate and will share her experiences with area seniors for staying healthy and independent after menopause. Motivated to take charge of her own health after watching her mother struggle with osteoporosis — a preventable disease — she tells women how they can "slow down all of it and prevent the worst of it." Her personal story and tell-it-like-it-is style will make this an informative and memorable experience. Ms. Richards will be speaking on Thursday, Sept. 7 at 10:30 a.m. in the Drury Lane Theatre at the Expo. Seating will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

Other entertainment scheduled for the theater includes comedians Chuck Salvo and Dick Anderson, as well as musical groups playing Dixieland swing music and a musical farewell to the 20th Century. And again this year, Southwest Airlines will be giving away one pair of tickets each day for the winners of the travel trivia game at the show.

Two popular exhibits that are returning again this year are the Secretary of State's Driver's License Renewal Program and the Intergenerational Computer Lab. Renewals and exchanges of driver's licenses for new digital licenses for a small fee will be offered. New identification cards are also available and are free to seniors over the age of 65, while new digital driver's licenses are free to seniors over the age of 75 (if they don't need a road test). Seniors should bring ample identification to access these services.

The Intergenerational Computer Learning Center was a huge success last year and will again be hosted by the Westmont Chamber of Commerce & Tourist Bureau. Six Westmont Junior High School students and SeniorNet volunteers from the Berwyn Cicero Council on Aging, will be on hand to work with interested seniors who are curious about the Internet, in addition to other computer related offerings.

The Expo will be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day. Tickets cost $3 per person, with group rates available at $2 per person with a group of 10 or more. New this year is a special "theater package," offered by the Expo management and the Drury Lane. For $15 one can get a ticket to the Expo, in addition to a ticket to the Drury Lane's Thursday matinee performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace."

The 5th Annual Senior Lifestyle Expo benefits the Holiday meals on Wheels program which purchases hot, nutritious meals for vulnerable elders.

SPECIAL EVENT

'I remember Bob Collins' book signing to be held in Gurnee, Crystal Lake

For more than a decade, Chicagoans woke up to WGN's Bob "Uncle Bobby" Collins on their radios. The popular morning host's tragic passing in an airplane crash in February brought forth an outpouring of emotion and tears, but his life is now being celebrated in the acclaimed new book, "I remember Bob Collins." Noted for his folksy radio personality, Collins was as genuine as he seemed on the air, and a friend to many. His charitable works, especially to the Salvation Army and WGN's Neediest Kids Fund, were unmatched. Every morning, Uncle Bobby is truly missed.

The book, a collection of stories and fond memories about the legendary broadcaster from his days in Milwaukee and Chicago, was written by award-winning journalist and playwright Vicki Quade. "I remember Bob Collins" includes interviews with family, friends, fans, fellow broadcasters, and many others who share their fond memories of Collins.

The book is now available at bookstores throughout the Chicago area. Fans for Bob Collins can also pick up a copy during several book signings with author Vicki Quade at Lake County locations. Area signings will be on Saturday, September 9, Gurnee Super Crown, 6557 Grand Ave., Suite 100, Gurnee at 11 a.m.; Tuesday, September 19, Arlington Heights Super Crown, 430 E. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights at 1 p.m. and Saturday, September 23, Crystal Lake Super Crown, 4423 Route 14, Crystal Lake at 2 p.m.

'Crew' offers laughs for an older generation

Those were the days—that seems to be the underlying tone of "The Crew," a movie that has been described by many as a "Goodfellas" meets "Grumpy Old Men."

The comedy begins in New Jersey, 1968, with four wise guys doing what they did best. Narrator Bobby Bartellemeo (played by Richard Dreyfuss), reminisces about the good times he had with his three buddies, Tony "The Mouth" Donato (Seymour Cassel), Joey "Bats" Pistella (Burt Reynolds) and Mike "The Brick" Donatelli (Dan Hedaya). "Money, power, respect—we had it all!" laments Bartellemeo. Flash forward to present day

movie review

Michelle Habrych

Miami with the four, much older and miserable, sitting on the front porch of their senior citizen residence hotel. One of the men questions the other about how he said the good times would never end. The reply? "I thought we'd be dead by now."

That's the typical humor of "The Crew," a predictable comedy of bumbling wise guys with a weak plot. The men all have legitimate jobs now. Bartellemeo drives a bus

The Crew

Rating
PG-13

Director
Michael Dinner

Starring

Burt Reynolds
Richard Dreyfuss
Seymour Cassel
Carrie-Anne Moss
Dan Hedaya

Tony "The Mouth" Donato (Seymour Cassel), Mike "The Brick" Donatelli (Dan Hedaya), Joey "Bats" Pistella (Burt Reynolds) and Bobby Bartellemeo (Richard Dreyfuss), in Touchstone's The Crew - 2000

for Carnival cruise lines. Mouth, whose nickname is somewhat misleading, dances with ladies who just want someone to dance with and listen to them.

Bats found himself working at Burger King, and he managed to get himself fired from every one of the chain restaurants in the area. Bartellemeo the narrator laments, "Once you're over 60, you shouldn't have to answer to a punk named Skippy."

Brick's choice of profession helps him make some sort of restitution for crimes of his youth—he does make-up on corpses at the morgue. His job comes in handy as the plot moves on.

Their residence, the Raj Mahal, is being taken over by yuppies because of its prime oceanfront location. The clients are literally waiting for the residents to die so they may get an apartment! The landlords raise the rent to try to evict the remaining tenants and that's when these wise guys fight back.

Their scheme has its merits, but the men are rusty and make some mistakes—with consequences that make for good comedy. A subplot has Bartellemeo looking for his long-lost daughter, Olivia, who his wife disappeared with years ago when he was in prison. When the detectives come to investigate, of course the lead detective on the case is Olivia Neal (Carrie-Anne Moss), none other than his daughter. This presents a dilemma for the wiseguy trying to cover up his tracks without losing her again.

One mistake the men make involves yet another subplot with a stripper named Ferris (Jennifer Tilly) and her stepmother (Lainie Kazan). All of the subplots weave together for one semi-predictable ending with some funny surprises.

These four actors have many film credits under their belts and "The Crew" just seems to be one where they all got together to have fun. Reynolds is enjoyable once again on the big screen, last seen as Judge Burns in "Mystery, Alaska." That familiar face you can't quite place is Moss, last seen in "The Matrix," evident when she kicks someone in the face a la Trinity.

It's a funny movie, but it may be more enjoyable for someone a little older—there was definitely a generation gap felt by this reviewer. I think my dad would like this movie.

I give this movie two and a half popcorn boxes.

The Cell

Visually, "The Cell" is completely engulfing. There are scenes in the film that no movie-goer will soon forget. From expansive shots of star Jennifer Lopez walking across the crest of a sand dune in the middle of a vast desert, to the haunting landscapes and costumes of serial killer Carl Stargher's (Vincent D'Onofrio) subconscious, the visuals in "The Cell" are hard to match. However, the movie's predictable, even boring, story line does not live up to the visuals.

This story line is nothing more than a science fiction remake of "The Silence Of The Lambs." The movie moves along its predictable path until its conclusion, which is blatantly foreshadowed in one of the opening scenes of the movie.

NOW PLAYING

And the acting in "The Cell" is lackluster at best. Two popcorn boxes.
—Tim O'Donnell

Disney's The Kid

Disney's latest romp into fantasy land—"The Kid"—features Bruce Willis as his typical character: a crusty but benign someone named Russ who, through some unforeseen circumstance, rights his ways before its too late. Though he is very good at the image consulting he does, the relationships he has with the people around him, including strangers, are less than good. The arrival of young Rusty (Spencer Breslin) prompts Willis to believe he is having a breakdown. Willis then discovers that Rusty is himself at age 8. He begins trying to figure out why the boy has come to him, and what he needs to change. This film is fun and entertaining and should be seen by anyone who is in the 40-year-old range. Three and a half popcorn boxes. —Bob Warde

Nutty Professor II: The Klumps

As with most sequels, the follow up to "The Nutty Professor" doesn't live up to the first film. Though Eddie Murphy does a fantastic job of portraying all five Klumps and Bud-dy Love, none of his personas has much to say that is worth hearing. The film is rated PG-13 indicating that the humor should bend toward the adult side of things, but a majority of the jokes reference bodily, bathroom functions—the type of humor preferred by fourth grade boys. That said, there are enough sight gags and jokes about anatomy and sex to make that same group of fourth grade boys blush. "Nutty Professor II: The Klumps" is ruder, cruder and not nearly as funny as its 1996 smash hit predecessor. One and one half popcorn boxes. —Julie Murphy

The Patriot

The rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air... Director Roland Emmerich has a new all-American classic with "The Patriot." Set in 1776, the story focuses on the trials of one South Carolina family, led by patriarch Benjamin Martin (wonderfully portrayed by Mel Gibson), during the American Revolution. The story goes much deeper than the war, as it tackles such issues as duty to country versus family, loyalty and trust. For the story and the wonderful actors who bring it to life. Four popcorn boxes. —Michelle Habrych

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20
Get straight to the point when meeting with a loved one early in the week Aries. Don't be afraid to tell this person exactly how you feel. It's the only way to resolve this situation. That special someone asks you an important question on Friday. Think before you answer.

Taurus - April 21/May 21
Don't back down when a co-worker challenges you on Tuesday, Taurus. You know that you are right, and you can prove it. Don't let him or her intimidate you. The person who you've been seeing wants to call it quits. While you're upset, you know that this is the right thing to do. Try to keep your chin up.

Gemini - May 22/June 21
You have a hectic week ahead of you, Gemini. So don't get distracted. Stay focused on the tasks at hand, and work diligently. Several people are counting on you to get things done. Don't let them down. A loved one asks for your help with a family matter. Do what you can for him or her.

Cancer - June 22/July 22
You have some free time on your hands this week, Cancer. Don't let it go to waste. Contact a close friend with whom you haven't spoken in a while. He or she will be glad to hear from you, and you're sure to learn some interesting information. A family friend asks for your advice. Be honest with him or her.

Leo - July 23/August 23
Take control of a difficult business situation when no one else will. You know that you can handle it. This is your chance to show the higher-ups exactly what you can do. Your efforts will be rewarded. That special someone has a surprise for you late in the week. Enjoy, because you deserve it.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22
Don't worry about an acquaintance who doesn't return your calls early in the week. He or she has a hectic schedule — that's all. This person will get back to you before Friday. A loved one introduces you to an interesting person on Thursday. Get to know him or her better, because this could be the one.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23
Don't believe everything that you hear on Tuesday, Libra. A business associate is trying to pull a fast one on you. Don't let that happen. If something seems too good to be true, it probably is. A close friend needs your help with a personal matter. While you don't want to get involved, you must.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22
A family matter takes up most of your time this week, Scorpio. Don't get upset about this. Your job is secure. A few days away won't hurt your career, especially when it's those closest to you who need you. An acquaintance asks to borrow money. Say no, because this person isn't very reliable.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21
Be honest when a loved one asks for your opinion about a personal matter. Even though the truth may hurt, he or she needs to hear it. Your honesty will be appreciated. A close friend takes you out for a night on the town late in the week. Enjoy yourself, and let your hair hang down.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20
Don't let an acquaintance persuade you to do something you don't want to do. It will only cause you a lot of problems in the long run. Stand your ground. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify your relationship. Say yes, because that is what you want, too. Sagittarius plays a key role on Saturday.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18
Don't set your sights too high early in the week, Aquarius. There is a lot that you want to do, but there's only so much time to do it. Set your priorities, and do the most important things first. It's the only way that you'll make any progress. Cancer plays an important role late in the week.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20
Keep your sense of humor about you, because you're going to need it. You have a busy week ahead of you, and there won't be much time to relax. You need to laugh at your problems if you're going to make it through.
